By Hattie Le Blanc, Sister Irene Says

OF KILLING HUSBAND; HIDING GIRL

Under oath in the Glover will contest in East Cambridge, Miss Irene Le Blanc to-day declared that her sister, Hattie, who is facing trial for the alleged murder of Clarence F. Glover, made the following startling statements:

"I did not kill Clarence F. Glover."

"Mrs. Lillian F. Glover killed him."

"Mrs. Glover knew I was in the house the night of the murder, after it occurred."

"I had supper with Mrs. Glover the next evening (Sunday)."

"Mrs. Glover made me hide under the bed, against my will."

"I had to do just as Mrs. Glover told me."

"I know I'll be freed, because I did not do the shooting."

Irene Le Blanc said that she had seen her sister Hattie five or six times since she had been locked up in the East Cambridge jail. She declared that Hattie protested her innocence the first time she saw her, but that it was not until she saw her last Wednesday that the accused girl declared that the guilty person was Mrs. Glover.

Lillian Le Blanc to Take the Stand.

The testimony of Irene Le Blanc was concluded shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon and court adjourned until 9:30 to-morrow, when her sister, Lillian, will take the stand.

A climax of excitement was reached in the case as a result of the sensational testimony and the presence in the courtroom for the first time of District Attorney Higgins. State Detective Byrnes of the District Attorney's staff, who is working on the murder, was also in court.

Irene Le Blanc Near Collapse.

Seymour Glover was called to the stand because of the lateness in the arrival of Irene Le Blanc. Seymour is the only one of the five Glover brothers who benefits by the will, and his other brothers have blamed him for not joining them to clear up the murder mystery.

After Seymour had been on the stand two hours, Irene Le Blanc was called and his testimony was suspended. It was brought out that Irene had gone from court yesterday to the prison to try to see her sister Hattie, but that she had failed to see her. The girl came near collapsing and was revived by a glass of water.

While Glover was on the witness stand a stenographic report of a talk that District Attorney Higgins had with Seymour Glover at Lawyer MacFarland's office was introduced. The District Attorney tried to get Seymour to tell all he know about the murder, but he refused. Higgins exclaimed:

"I have just convicted a man in Lowell on less evidence than we have in this case."

Rumor of Reconciliation.

Seymour Glover denied that he was "hand-in-hand with Mrs. Glover" in response to a question by Higgins. Seymour said: "He has told me to keep quiet," apparently referring to Lawyer Elmore. And later said:

"If I talk too much I may hurt Mr. Elmore's end."

"He has no end," replied District Attorney Higgins.

The fact that Seymour and Albert Glover went to court together, chatting pleasantly, to-day, led to the rumor that there had been a reconciliation between him and his brothers.

The sessions are being held in the Old Cherry court room in the Criminal Court Building. Just across from this is the women's end of the East Cambridge Jail. Hattie Le Blanc, now confined there, can look across and see the court in session.

At 9:15 o'clock Judge McIntire suggested that another witness be placed on the witness stand until the Le Blanc girls arrived. This was done, and Seymour Glover was called by Attorney MacFarland.

Glover's Brother on Stand.

He testified he was born in 1853, at Dayton, O.

Q.—Where are you now employed? A.—At Waltham, for the Waltham Laundry Company, since 1905.

Q.—Was the company in existence then? A.—No.

Q.—Who employed you at that time? A.—My brother Clarence.

Q.—From whom do you take orders in your employment now? A.—I don't take orders from anybody but Mr. Elmore.

Q.—Does he give you instructions respecting your work? A.—Not in respect to my work.

Q.—What work are you doing now at the laundry? A.—I am employed as a shipper.

Q.—Have you general supervision over the laundry? A.—There is nobody that I am obliged to take orders from except Mr. Elmore.

Q.—And you give orders? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is that the relation that you have always borne to your fellow employes? A.—No.

Is Running Laundry Now.

Q.—When did you consider that you had the right to give orders? A.—After my brother's death.

Q.—Who told other employes the fact that you were clothed with new authority? A.—I suppose Mr. Elmore did.

Q.—What makes you think so? A.—Well, as I was mentioned in the will, I thought I was the one to assume the duty at the laundry.

Q.—Did Mr. Elmore call the employes in and introduce you as their new chief? A.—He had a talk with them.

Q.—During your brother's lifetime, were you next in authority? A.—I had charge of my department. Others had charge of theirs. He was the sole proprietor.

Q.—And you always regarded him as the sole proprietor of the laundry? A.—Yes.

Q.—Are you the president of the corporation? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you suppose until you heard

BOSTON GIRL IS FOUND CAPTIVE IN WHITE SLAVE DEN

The Boston police were notified by the New York police to-day that nineteen-year-old Catherine Moore, of Everett street, Boston, had been found, tied to a door-knob, in an alleged "white slave" den in Hoboken, N. J., where she had been imprisoned for two months.

Dispatches this afternoon from New York related that the girl told the police that Anthony Delli, the alleged proprietor of the place, had slashed her across the face with a razor when she attempted to escape a few days after she had been imprisoned in the den. The girl bears a long scar on her face now.

HELD PRISONER BY CHAINS.

During most of her imprisonment the girl was either chained to the bed or tied to the door knob. She said she had seen the sun only once during her two months' confinement in the loathsome place.

"I answered a letter written to me by these people about employment," the girl said, "and came to New York, meeting them at a house on lower Third avenue. This was about nine weeks ago. About a week after my arrival they induced me to come to Hoboken, where, they said, they would secure employment for me.

Says She Was Beaten.

"I was taken to the store at No. 225 Jackson street and placed in a rear room. My clothes were taken away from me, and I was given a dirty skirt and a shirt waist to wear. I had plenty to eat. I begged them to take me out, but they turned a deaf ear to my pleadings.

"When I didn't give them enough money they would beat me with their fists and sticks."

The police immediately got into communication with the Boston police and later with the girl's relatives. She was held in $1,000 bail by Recorder McGovern as a witness.

A few days ago Chief of Police Hayes of Hoboken received an anonymous letter stating that a pretty young girl was being held a prisoner in the rear of a candy store at No. 225 Jackson street and was being shamefully abused. After a day of investigation Corelli, with another detective, descended on the store to-day.

Entering the store, he started to walk toward the rear room when Delli, the proprietor, stopped him.

"Where you go?" he demanded, throwing his hand to his back pocket. In an instant Corelli had drawn his revolver and covered the man. At the sight of the pistol Mrs. Delli dropped on her knees before the detective and pleaded with him not to shoot her.

Faints When Rescued.

Reaching the door that led into the little rear room, Corelli grabbed the knob and pulled with all his strength. Of a sudden the door flew open, and with it came the form of the girl, the stout cord which had been tied to her wrist and then to the door knob pulling her from her feet when the door was pulled open.

"Don't strike me; don't hit me," she pleaded, not knowing that Corelli was a detective. She fainted and Corelli, after lighting the gas, placed her on the bed. A patrol wagon was summoned and the girl and the two prisoners were taken to police headquarters.

Later the girl said that she had been tied to the door since last Saturday. The foul air of the room almost choked the detective, and it was so dark that he could not see until he lit the gas.

Lena Delli and her alleged husband, Anthony Delli, proprietors of the supposed "den" were taken into custody and later arraigned before Recorder McGovern in Hoboken, were held in $2,000 bail each for the grand jury.

JOHNSON LOCKED UP IN TOMBS

NEW YORK, March 22.—Jack Johnson, the heavyweight pugilist, was cast into a cell in the Tombs today in default of $5,000 bail on a charge of assaulting Norman Pinder, a sickly and undersized negro, in a row in an uptown cafe, during Johnson's last stay in New York.

Pinder failed to appear when Johnson was called for trial, and Judge Mulqueen said that the testimony of subpoena servers showed that there had been underhand work in getting him out of the city on Sunday. The court was not to be trifled with, he said, and he increased the bail from $1,000 to $5,000.

Johnson's trial was scheduled to start to-day, and he wore a broad smile when he entered the court, attired in a natty Spring suit and bedecked with diamonds. His attorney, James Nugent, said that he had come from Chicago on the eighteen-hour train so as to be in court on time.

"Court Is Trified With."

Pinder failed to answer when his name was called and Attorney Nugent asked that the indictment be dismissed. "No," exclaimed the judge, angrily. "I believe that this court is being trifled with. You, Johnson, misrepresented things when you appeared before me last time. You spoke of your numerous engagements and of the great financial loss you would suffer if you were held and I generously released you in $1,500 bail. You subsequently appeared and demanded a trial on a certain date, which is to-day."

"Please, Judge, just a minute. I have a play in Kansas City and am due there next week. I am supposed to be in Chicago next week. I will be here any time Your Honor wants me, and if you will fix my bail at $3,000 I will furnish it myself. I have that much in my pocket right now, and I will gladly put it up."

"I have ruled," said the Judge. "I am going to teach you that this Court cannot be trifled with. I am going to issue warrants for Pinder and the two women, and when we have found them this trial will go on."

Held in $5,000 Bail.

Johnson tried to interrupt again, but the judge checked him, declaring that he would hear no further argument.

"Now you come here and there is no complaint in court. Reports of subpoena servers show that Pinder was either inveigled or smuggled out of this city on Sunday. It is also a fact that two other witnesses, women, are beyond the reach of the subpoena servers attached to this court. This strikes me as being very suspicious, so much so that I am not inclined to grant any further leniency.

"Therefore, I am going to hold this defendant in $5,000 bail and all his rights will be preserved."

Johnson's ebony face, which up to this time had been lighted up with a smile, which revealed his gold teeth, blanched, and leaning over the rail until his head was close to that of the judge, he said:

"What's that you said?"

Unheeding the interruption the Judge continued: "And no favors will be shown you."

Johnson tried to smile as a court officer, a midget in comparison with him, grabbed hold of him by the arm and led him over the Bridge of Sighs. He made no protest as he was led to his cell and the door clanged behind him.

PEACHES MAKE THIRD TRY TO DOWN DOVES

By W. H. ROSS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—Neither Manager Fred Lake nor Captain Graham are satisfied with the stick work of their teams, and in preparation for the third of the series this afternoon the training this morning was devoted entirely to practice with the bat. Tuckey, Burke and Wolfgang were in the box for the Doves and Buster Brown and Al Mattern twirled for the Peaches. Captain Graham sai dbefore the game he would probably work another pitcher.

"If my men do a little better in the field," he said, "I think we can beat out the Regulars to-day. We are about due to win a game."

Leon Martel made his debut as catcher this morning. Forrest More was in the box, and the big backstop had considerable ginger for a man who has done so little work this Spring. This was the warmest afternoon the Doves have yet had to work in, and Manager Lake expects that the pitchers will be in condition to show what they have got very soon.

[illegible] has cut loose some while warming up and is willing to work in the box in the game. The grand stand was filled with Augusta fans, who say that the Doves are playing unusually interesting scrub games.

PEACE PLAN FAILS IN BIG CAR STRIKE

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—The peace plans in the car strike were halted to-day when the Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company refused point blank to accede to the men's ultimatum that all the strikers be reemployed within two months and given their old runs. The result renews the deadlock.

All pure nourishment. Builds you up.

MELLEN MAKES CONCESSIONS TO AVERT STRIKE

NEW HAVEN, Ct., March 23.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, it was announced to-day, had offered concessions to the employes who have voted for a strike. The offer was made by President Mellen to-day in conference with a committee from the men. It was declared, however, that the company will have to go further in meeting the demands to avert the strike. Another conference has been called for to-morrow.

Final conferences between the heads of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and the New York Central and the representativs of th brotherhoods of Conductors, Trainmen and Yardmen, many of them being from Boston, were held to-day in New Haven and New York.

Fraught with tremendous possibilities, these meetings were to determine if the railroad officials would yield to the demands of the men. If they refuse a strike may be instantly declared, as the organizations have overwhelmingly voted it.

The representatives of the thousands of Boston and New England employes working on the Boston & Albany Railroad met with the president and highest officials of the New York Central in the Grand Central Station in New York. The question of the advances and other conditions demanded by the men was taken up.

If the New York officials refuse the demands of the local representatives, which are the same as those of other parts of the country, the entire New York Central trunk line may be tied up by the greatest strike the country has ever seen.

In Chicago, dispatches to the BOSTON AMERICAN say that Charles P. Neill, Commissioner of Labor, summoned the representatives of the brotherhoods of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen and the representatives of forty-nine railroads and submitted to them plans for a compromise which, he believes, will speedily bring about peace between the employes and the railroads.

BOY, VICTIM OF AUTO, MAY DIE

Wesley Nelson, eleven years old, of No. 47 River street, Newton, is unconscious in the Newton City Hospital, with slight chances of recovery as a result of being struck yesterday afternoon by an auto owned and operated by Raymond E. Huntington of Wollaston, a former Newton man.

Mr. Huntington accompanied by Mrs. Huntington, was driving through Chestnut street, Newton. Opposite the Pierce School the lad ran from behind a team and directly in front of the auto. Mr. Huntington made an effort to stop, but failed and the boy was dragged several feet. The boy was taken to the hospital in an auto by Elvin Sowers of No. 1,358 Washington street, Newton. He was terribly bruised about the head and arms.

To-day the boy was still in an unconscious condition.

HOLD SERVICES FOR EX-MAYOR SORTWELL

The funeral of former Mayor Alvin F. Sortwell of Cambridge was held from his residence, No. 61 Highland street, this afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Drs. Samuel A. Eliot and George W. Bicknell officiated. Mayor Brooks and all the other prominent city officials, as well as scores of prominent professional and business men, were present. The City Hall was closed, the shades drawn and the flag at half mast. The interment was in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

RUSSELL CLAIMANT SHOWS SCAR ON KNEE

Daniel Blake Russell, claimant in the Russell will case, went into Judge Lawton's lobby at East Cambridge courthouse to-day, rolled up his right trouser leg and showed to Judge Lawton and to counsel and physicians for each side the scar concerning which he had testified to yesterday.

William C. Russell, respondent in the case, had previously testified that his brother had a scar on his right leg, the result of a cut when a boy, but that no stitches had been taken in it. Yesterday Daniel Blake Russell testified he had such a scar, received in running against an iron chestband when working in an India-street tea store in Boston. He said, however, that stitches had been taken in it.

To-day's examination was to determine the nature of the scar and if the original cut had been closed with stitches. The examination began at 11 o'clock, court being adjourned for the purpose.

To-day was expected to be the final one for taking testimony in the case. It was the 114th consecutive day of the trial and the 184th day since the trial started last September. In this time 11,200 typewritten pages of testimony have been taken, aggregating over 3,500,000 words.

When Daniel Blake Russell, the claimant, resumed the stand to-day for continued redirect examination, Attorney Simpson, for the claimant, said he thought that the claimant would be the final witness and that his testimony would be concluded by afternoon. After the recross-examination by Attorney Nason, testimony would be all in.

Attorney William Odlin, counsel for Daniel Blake Russell No. 2, of Fresno, Cal., received a telegram to-day from his client, announcing that the latter would be in Boston Monday or Tuesday to present his claim in person.

On the stand to-day Daniel Blake Russell denied that he had ever dictated a will in which bequests were left to members of the Ruseau family, which had testified that the claimant was their son, James Delbert Ruseau.

TARIFF PROTEST BY BORDER MEN

WASHINGTON, March 23.—A delegation representing the business interests along the Canadian border, including the Great Lakes region and part of New England, to-day held a conference with Secretary of State Knox and protested against the threatened tariff war with Canada.

Secretary Knox told him that he could not talk freely to them, but he assured them that they were unduly alarmed, and that the negotiations with Canada were progressing smoothly.

Representative Alexander of New York, who introduced the delegation, which numbered more than one hundred, told the Secretary that American business interests on the border would lose $200,000,000 in the event of a trade war. Governor Prouty of Vermont, who was with the delegation, told the Secretary that New England interests would be paralyzed unless the minimum tariff agreement was reached with Canada.

$10,000 FIRE IN GLOUCESTER

GLOUCESTER, March 23.—The water front of the eastern section of the city was threatened to-day when fire caused a damage of $10,000 to the plant of George Perkins & Sons, wholesale fish dealers and box manufacturers, off the east section of Main street.

When the firemen arrived clouds of smoke were pouring out of the main structure. After a fierce battle they managed to confine the flames to this building, and extinguished the blaze.

FIRE PANIC SEIZES CHELSEA DISTRICT

Panic seized hundreds of residents in the thickly populated West Side district of Chelsea during a brisk blaze, which started in the house at No. 67 Summer street and spread to the two adjoining buildings and threatened, for a while, to sweep the section. It required all the efforts of a large squad of police, as well as many citizens who were there, to convince the great horde of foreigners who live in the locality that there was not to be a repetition of the big conflagration two years ago. The frightened people carried all their belongings to the street, and many carted their furniture away.

SECRETARY MEYER'S SON IS FINED $20

George von L. Meyer, Jr., of Hamilton, son of the Secretary of the Navy, paid a fine of $20 in the Roxbury Court to-day for not driving his automobile on the right side of Agassiz road and for not giving proper signals. Complaint was made by Patrolman Higgins. Mr. Meyer pleaded guilty on each count. Judge Lawton asked him if he had anything to say. "Nothing," replied the defendant.

ENGINEERS STRIKE IN CAMBRIDGE WORK

Fifty steam engineers working on the Cambridge subway struck to-day because their wages had been reduced from $28 a week to $25, while at the same time the wages of the electrical engineers were increased from 33⅓ cents an to 40 cents. The strike crippled the operations of the contractor making the excavation. The laborers are still digging and shoveling, but they threaten to strike the first of April. They are now getting $1.94 for ten hours work and they want $0 a day for nine hours' work.

WITHDRAW LANDS AS WATER POWER SITES

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Secretary of the Interior Ballinger to-day withdrew from entry for the disposition of water power sites 42,459 acres on Yampa River, 3,560 acres on White River, 5,480 acres on Grape creek, all in Colorado. Two thousand two hundred and forty acres were also withdrawn along DesChutes River and 1,720 acres along Willow creek, all in Oregon, together with 1,200 acres along Bear River in Wyoming.

CABINET PLANS LORDS' FUTURE

LONDON, March 23.—Jubilant over the action of the Lords in renouncing the hereditary right to legislate—a revolutionary change in the British constitution—the cabinet met to-day in the House of Commons to plan the order for the upper chamber. The adoption of Lord Rosebery's third resolution, by a vote of 175 to 17, is by far the most important result of the long fight that has been waged since the Lords rejected the budget last year. The fact that but 200 of the 616 Lords voted on the Rosebery resolution is taken as an indication that the Lords in future will be more or less apathetic.

The outcome of the vote on Lord Rosebery's recommendation is the direct result of the popular indignation which has stirred England since the Lords interfered with the financial program.

The text of the third Rosebery resolution which was introduced when the first two, urging the need of reform and reconstitution, were laid before the upper chamber, reads:

"That a necessary preliminary to such reform and reconstitution is acceptance of the principle that a possession of peerage should not longer of itself give the right to sit and vote in the House of Lords."

MRS. LONGWORTH TO ATTEND FUNERAL

Many well-known banking men of New York with other notables will attend the funeral of George C. Lee to be held at 11 a. m. to-morrow in the Arlington Street Church. The funeral services for Mr. Lee, former member of Lee, Higginson & Co., will be simple. The Rev. Edward Hale of Chestnut Hill will officiate. There will be no pallbearers.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, Mr. Lee's granddaughter, leaves Washington this afternoon for Boston to attend the funeral. The train on which she comes is scheduled to arrive here at 7 a. m. to-morrow.

'HEARST PAPERS HELP PEOPLE'

NEW YORK, March 23.—"Resolved that the Hearst newspapers are a potent factor for the promotion of better government in the country."

This question was decided in the affirmative by the literary class of the Twenty-third street branch of the Y. M. C. A., after a debate lasting fifty minutes. The class voted on the merits of the arguments presented by both sides.

The winning team consisted of Paul B Scarff, Arthur T. Egan and H. C. Maguire. The negative team was composed of H. A Gueremand, William C. Trewin and M. O. Smith.

Mr. Maguire, who was the first affirmative speaker, told how the mind of the illiterate was developed by reading the American and Journal and how these papers taught the principles of sound government. He pointed out that they constantly exposed wrong doing in high places, denounced the man who sold public franchises as a thief and took active part in raising the standard of citizenship.

ANOTHER ARREST IN COUNTERFEIT CASE

John Kuramowski, who was arrested in Brockton on two charges of counterfeiting half dollars bearing the date of 1908, to-day told the United States prosecuting officials that his cousin, "Mike" Kuramowski, who had also been sought in Brockton, was hiding in this city at No. 84 Endicott street. United States Deputy Marshal Ruhl went to that address, and was there directed to another place, where "Mike" had gone. He was arrested. United States Commissioner Hayes arraigned the men on charges of counterfeiting and held them both in $1,500 bail for a hearing on Friday.

OXFORD BEATS CAMBRIDGE IN THE BOAT RACE

PUTNEY, England, March 23.—Oxford to-day won the historic boat race with Cambridge by four lengths.

Before a throng that lined the river the full length of the course from Putney to Mortlake the two crews put up one of the greatest contests the event has ever developed. The fact that the race was run on Wednesday instead of Saturday, as is customary, had little effect in keeping away the crowds.

The weather was ideal. A light breeze from the southwest made for comfort, but did not even ripple the water, and the sun was bright, bringing out all the gay aspects of the crowds and boats of every kind along the course.

Oxford, with the heavier crew, was the favorite in the betting. Cambridge won the toss for the station and chose the north side of the river.

The race was got under way without a hitch of importance. Oxford got a good lead early in the race and swept home to the cheering of thousands.

Oxford's time was 20 minutes 14 seconds, and by the official judges won by three and a half lengths.

The boats started at 12:26 p. m. Oxford took a slight lead immediately, which Cambridge soon closed up, forging ahead. Half way, however, Oxford again shot ahead, rowing easily with thirty-four strokes to the minute, against Cambridge's thirty-six. From then on Oxford steadily increased the gap.

ARGUMENTS MADE IN ALLDS BRIBE CASE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23.—Judge Van Wyck began the summing up for the prosecution in the Conger-Allds bribery investigation to-day at the opening of the session of the Senate in committee of the whole. Judge Van Wyck argued until 1 o'clock, when recess was taken. Then James W. Osborne took up the argument and continued until 5 o'clock, when the case was to close.

MRS. MANSFIELD DEAD.

Mrs. Catherine Mansfield, wife of Dr. James A. Mansfield and sister-in-law of former Representative John J. Mansfield of Ward 17, is dead at her home, No. 342 Dudley street, Roxbury, after a brief illness. She was the daughter of the late Timothy Murphy, who represented old Ward 20 in the Common Council in the early '80s. She was twenty-nine years old and prominent in church circles.

SPECIAL
ONE WEEK ONLY
DIAMONDS
½ CARAT $26.00

We offer 160 genuine solitaire diamond rings; the settings are solid 14 carat gold; suitable for Lady or Gentleman; the diamonds are white, full of fire, and weigh ½ of a carat. They will be sold at $26.00 each, with the understanding that the money will be refunded if they can be duplicated in any store in Boston at the above price. Ask any jeweller his price for a ½ of a carat diamond, then take into consideration that it makes nearly as much show as a ¾ carat diamond. You will then realize what this offer means to you.

We shall also offer the following list of Diamonds, of which we have no duplicates:

The purchaser of any one of these Rings will have the privilege of keeping it ten days for comparison and appraisal, and then returning it for the full amount in cash if desired.

WASHINGTON IS STIRRED BY FOSS VICTORY

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23.—"It's the handwriting on the wall," is the way the Democrats in the House interpret the Democratic victory in the Fourteenth Congressional district of Massachusetts. The Republicans, too, admit that Foss's election to fill the vacancy in the House caused by the death of Representative Lovering is more than significant.

Friends of Representative Butler Ames, who is after Senator Lodge's seat in the Senate, say that Buchanan's defeat is a slap at the Lodge machine and means that Lodge will have the fight of his life to get back to Congress.

Representative Lloyd of Missouri, chairman of the Democratic congressional campaign committee, said to-day that yesterday's sweeping victory in the Bay State at this time can be regarded as a forerunner of what may be expected in the November elections.

"Repetition of 1890."

"In my judgment," said Mr. Lloyd, "it will prove a repetition of the 1890 campaign, when the McKinley tariff was the issue and we carried the country by an overwhelming majority. The Aldrich-Payne tariff was the leading issue in the election and was the first opportunity for the people to express their views on that measure. Foss's election is a surprise, of course. We thought we would reduce the Republican plurality, but did not look for such a landslide."

"When the Democrats can wrest from the Republicans such a strong district as that represented by the late Mr. Lovering," said Representative John N. Garner of Texas, Democratic whip of the House, "you may depend on it that such a victory has more than local significance. Its influence will be felt more or less in every Congressional District in the country. It is evident the people of Massachusetts do not agree with President Taft that the Aldrich-Payne bill is the best tariff law ever placed on the statute books."

Champ Clark Elated.

Representative Champ Clark of Missouri, minority leader of the House, said to-day:

"The election of Foss, in connection with the recent election in Missouri, can only mean one thing—people will have none of Taft's policies, nor the policies of the Republicans in the House. It is an unmistakable condemnation of the Aldrich-Payne tariff act.

"It is an indication of what may be expected next November in the general elections."

"There is no use arguing that it is not an indication of the next Congressional elections, and it proves to my mind that the Democrats will carry the next House."

"It's simply glorious," was the way Senator Money of Mississippi, Democratic leader in the Senate, characterized the Foss election. "I had expected an expression of popular disapproval of the Republican party, but I had not anticipated anything one-half so great as was accomplished in Massachusetts."

NEW YORK STATE REPUBLICANS SEE WRITING ON WALL

ALBANY, March 23.—Democratic victories up State in New York and the election of Eugene N. Foss, Democrat, to Congress from the rock-ribbed Republican Fourteenth District of Massachusetts have brought fresh consternation to the Republican leaders. The bitterness of the struggle for the control of the Republican party in New York, contended for by the State leaders under State Committee Chairman Woodruff and the national administration, is to-day more accentuated than ever, and party chiefs of both factions admit that something must be quickly done to strengthen the G. O. P.'s position in the Empire State. This sentiment is significant in view of the demand for wholesale investigation of the alleged corruption in the Legislature.

The returns from the charter elections in New York received to-day show a general strengthening of the Democratic forces.

PROTEST DELAY ON NEW HARBOR TUNNEL

Protest against further delay by the Legislature in the matter of the proposed electric railway tunnel under Boston harbor to East Boston was made before the legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs to-day by former Mayor Charles N. Baxter of Medford, of counsel for the Boston & Eastern Electric Railroad corporation. William D. Chapple of Salem and Judge Edward L. Logan of Boston also spoke for the bill. The plan is for a $2,000,000 tunnel from East Boston under the harbor and connection with a terminal to be located on Post Office square.

CIGARETTE COST HIM $1,300.

NEW YORK, March 23.—After smoking a cigarette given to him by a stranger in Park Row, a Hungarian, whose name the police gave as John Smith, living at 108 Sackett street, Brooklyn, became bewildered and lost his roll of $1,300.

"DAMN" NOT A SWEAR WORD.

MORRISTOWN, N. J., March 23.—"Damn" is not a swear word, nor is it prohibited by the Vice and Immorality act of New Jersey. A Morristown jury has so decided in the case of Surrogate David Young, accused by Mrs. Nellie Fitzherbert.

PITTSBURG BARS HIGH HEELS.

PITTSBURG, March 23.—The high school girls have been forbidden to wear French heels—in school, at least. The physical culture teacher complained that a young woman is incapable of exercising when her heels rest on tall pegs.

FARMERS! BUY DYNAMITE!

SPARTANBURG, S. C., March 23.—J. Henry Caldwell, a farmer, broke up an acre of land with 800 charges of dynamite, the explosive being used instead of the plough. Mr. Caldwell says blasting land with dynamite is the best method for subsoiling.

NEW "BILLIONAIRE SPECIAL."

PASADENA, Cal., March 23.—Santa Fe officials are planning to send eastward from Pasadena on Friday the "Billionaire Special." It will run direct to New York. Six private cars will be occupied by the Andrew Carnegie party, Mrs. Russell Sage, Edwin Gould and W. Seward Webb.

TRAMP GAVE HIM A POINTER.

WINSTED, Ct., March 23.—Clad in dingy clothes, Joseph Cote, an employe of the Winsted Edge Tool Works, was entering the yard of his home when he met a tramp coming from the house. The vagrant said to Cote, "Forget it! You can't get anything to eat there. She just turned me down."

HARDWARE MEN DISPLAY SKILL AT CONVENTION

Business was the all-absorbing topic and the keynote of to-day's meeting of the New England Hardware Dealers' Association in Mechanics' Hall. More delegates have arrived.

The association met this afternoon in Paul Revere Hall and listened to addresses by three of the leading hardware men. Following each of the addresses, the subjects were discussed from the platform and the floor.

The speakers at this afternoon's meeting were James H. Bryan, "Hardware Experiences;" J. A. Harrington and E. H. Prouty, "Membership." President Frank Peirson of Pittsfield presided.

The morning session, held in Convention Hall, was devoted to the reading of reports of the officers and the committees. Gen. F. Alexander Chandler presided over a discussion of the thousand and one interesting interrogations which had been placed in "The Question Box."

The convention and exhibition this year excels previous meetings in every way. It is considered an education to visit the exhibition and study the remarkable innovations that have been wrought during the last year in the hardware trade. Every side of the hardware industry—and there are hundreds—are represented by the comprehensive exhibition. You can see anything from the tiniest carpet tack to the largest lawn mower and from the tiniest penknife to the largest knife ever manufactured. What is more, the hardware lines are made interesting by the display and by the devices that have been specially designed to interest the visitor.

There'll be living hardware that will dance around magically to-night in Paul Revere Hall. There'll be scissors, knives, locks, batteries—in fact, everything in the hardware line will dance. It will be a dancing hardware show, for a unique costume party and whist has been planned by the committee for to-night.

While their husbands, brothers and fathers were attending meetings at the convention the ladies were spending a delightful day. A large party left Mechanics Building and visited the historical points of interest in Charlestown, the navy yard and Bunker Hill monument. At noon luncheon was served at the Lenox and in the afternoon the ladies visited the State House.

The original badges, which have been distributed, are regarded by all as the most artistic souvenirs that have ever been given by a convention in Boston.

GEN. BELL HURT, WOMAN KILLED, IN AUTO CRASH

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Mrs. Herbert J. Slocum, wife of Major Slocum, U. S. A., now stationed at Governor's Island, was killed and Major-General Franklin Bell, chief of staff of the army, seriously injured, when an automobile bound from Fort Myer, Va., to Washington, was run down by a trolley car near Fort Myer this forenoon. Mrs. Slocum died in fifteen minutes. Her husband is related to the Russell Sage family.

Mrs. Slocum, who is a friend of Major General Bell and Mrs. Bell, had been visiting them at Fort Myer. Mrs. Slocum left with General Bell, intending to be driven to the apartment of Mrs. H. L. Green, a friend, who lives in the Wyoming apartment house.

At Wisconsin avenue and Garfield street, in the northwest part of the city, the machine was struck and crushed by a heavy electric street car.

The street car almost cut the automobile in two. As soon as possible General Bell boarded a street car and went to Fort Myer, from which place he reported the accident to the war department. He asked that Major Slocum be notified at Governor's Island at once, but that he be only told that his wife had been badly hurt in an automobile accident.

He then directed that a second telegram be sent informing him of her death.

At the Fort Meyer Hospital it was announced at 1 o'clock that General Bell is resting easily. He is under the influence of an opiate. The surgeons do not believe any bones are broken or that he is injured internally. The General's head and chest are covered with bruises, and there are several severe contusions on the scalp. He is suffering chiefly from shocks.

REVIEW CHARGES AGAINST TEACHER

CLINTON, March 23.—The School Committee which has been hearing charges against Miss Margaret Toury of nagging and threatening her pupils in the third and fourth grades in the High Street School is to review the entire case to-night and its verdict will be published in a formal statement. Mr. and Mrs. Leon Corse testified before the board that Miss Toury had called their son Louis, eight, "a dunce, blockhead, woodenhead" and holding his face for the other children to laugh at. They said that their son was afflicted with nervous ailments and could not control his features.

DICKINSON TO GET NEW TRIAL

It is understood that the Government has decided to retry John W. Dickinson of Boston on the charge of aiding and abetting in the misapplication of the funds of the South Danvers National Bank at Peabody. Dickinson was convicted on this charge ten years ago.

Two of the jury were taken ill. Dickinson agreed to have his trial continue with ten men. When a verdict of guilty was returned he appealed on the ground that he had not had his constitutional right of a trial by twelve.

The United States Court of Appeal took this view and set aside the conviction.

Assistant District Attorney W. H. Lewis has made an investigation and it is understood has discovered that, although some of the witnesses have died, their evidence was not important.

SWIMS A MILE AS MOTOR BOAT BURNS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., March 23.—Charles H. Cross, fisherman, narrowly escaped death, when an explosion occurred upon a motor boat and burned to the water in midstream between Four Tree Islands and Mechanic street here early to-day. Cross had to swim more than a mile to shore, where he fell from exhaustion.

KILLED IN SHAFTING.

NORTH ANDOVER, March 23.—James W. Fish, forty-five, was caught and whirled around the shafting while lacing a belt in the Sutton mill here to-day and instantly killed. Fish lived at No. 92 Sutton street and leaves a widow and family.

FIRE FIGHTERS DRENCH CROWD

Pedestrians along Washington street received an unexpected wetting on account of an awning fire on the fifth floor level of the Washington building at No. 387 this noon. The awning was over one of the front windows of the American Bank Note Company. Clerks played the building hose on it. The water landed on the heads of the street crowd, causing a general scattering. The clerks extinguished the blaze and saved the firemen a job.

POLICE RESCUE FIVE IN FIRE

Five persons, all helpless from inhaling smoke, and with flames around them, were taken from the house at No. 1,969 Washington street, Roxbury, by four policemen of the Roxbury Crossing Station.

The fire was caused by a pipe which James Forbes, a lodger, was smoking as he fell asleep. Forbes is at the City Hospital suffering from severe burns and the effects of smoke inhalation.

Mrs. Adamson and her three children, the oldest eight years old, were the others rescued. They were cared for in neighboring homes.

The house is a three-story brick dwelling, and Forbes occupied a room on the top floor. John Rogers, who occupies the adjoining house, was reading when he smelled smoke and traced it to Forbes's room. Smoke came pouring through the cracks in the door and he banged upon the panels with his fist, but got no response from inside, and thinking that Forbes was away rushed out into the street and sounded a fire alarm.

FIVE WEEKS MORE OPERA NEXT SEASON

Boston is to have five more weeks of grand opera next year than it had this season. This is the most important of the announcements made by the Board of Directors, which to-day are attracting much attention among operagoers. Hereafter Boston is to have a season of twenty weeks.

Another thing much talked about is the raising of prices of the best seats. Theodore N. Vail and Walter C. Baylies were elected directors and Mr. Baylies was also placed on the executive committee. The board met yesterday in the offices of the president, Eben D. Jordan.

The new schedule of prices specifies that the price of seats on the orchestra floor shall be $5; seats in the centre section of the first five rows of the first balcony shall be $4 each; in the side sections of the same rows $3 each, and that the price of the balance of the seats shall remain the same as during the first season, $2, $1.50 and $1.

Notable List of Singers.

The directors announce that the singers next season will include Messrs. Caruso, Slezak, Jadlowker, Scotti and Amato, Mmes. Fremstadt, Farrar, Homer and Alda, and that several new operas will be added to the repertoire. The directors also announce that the celebrated dancer, Mme. Anna Pavlowa, will appear ten times.

"Ever since the opening night of the Boston Opera House," says Mr. Jordan, "critics and the public have agreed that the general character of the operas presented has been equal and in some respects superior to any $5 operatic organization which has visited this city.

"As already has been announced, Director Henry Russell has been elected advisory associate of the Metropolitan Opera House of New York, and Gatti-Casazza, the director of the Metropolitan, has been elected advisory associate of our own opera house.

Twenty Consecutive Weeks.

"The season of 1910-1911 will consist of twenty consecutive weeks. Four subscription performances will be given each week, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday matinee.

"Applications for season tickets will be received from the stockholders from now until Wednesday, April 27. The allotment of seats will take place on the following day, Thursday, April 28, at 10:30 a. m. at the opera house.

"Each share of stock entitles its holder to subscribe to one set, either for the entire 80 performances of the season or for each or all of the series of Monday, Wednesday or Friday evenings or Saturday matinee, as may be desired.

"Applications for subscriptions from the stockholders do not have to stipulate for which series of performances the applications are made, as this choice is left optional until the day of allotment.

After April 28, Mr. Jordan added, subscriptions from the general public will be received, and seats will be alloted in order of the receipt of the applications.

The subscription prices for the series of 20 performances are:

Orchestra floor	$100
First balcony, A, B, C, D, E (centre sec)	80
First balcony, B, C, D, E (side sec)	60
First balcony, F to S	40
Second balcony, A to E	40
Second balcony, F to K	30
Second balcony, L to R	20

Twenty-five per cent. of the subscription amount is to be deposited on the day of the allotment of seats.

BELLE IN DIVORCE SUIT VISITS BOSTON

Mrs. Henry Bainbridge Baker, wife of a wealthy New York contractor, who is suing her husband for a divorce in the Trenton, N. J., courts on the grounds that her husband expatriated her and forced her under pressure of poverty to give up the land of her birth and live in Europe, is at the home of a relative in Jamaica Plain, where she is stopping for a few days before returning to New York.

The Bakers were married in Boston November 19, 1898, by Rev. Sumner U. Shearman, rector of the St. James Episcopal Church of Jamaica Plain. Mrs. Baker was Virginia Lee, daughter of Charles T. Lee.

WOMEN ORGANIZE TO UPLIFT STAGE

CHICAGO, March 23.—Members of ninety-six women's clubs, meeting in the First Congregational Church, Evanston, launched the Drama League of America, for the uplift of the stage. A membership of 15,000, including the women of all the fashionable North Shore clubs, is expected by April 25. The plan of the league is to appeal to theatrical managers to give dramatic performances of the higher class and shunning the mediocre.

$22,000 FOR WIDOW OF GOV. JOHNSON

ST. PAUL, March 23.—To help care for the widow of the late Governor Johnson and to establish a scholarship in the State University after her death, a fund of $22,000 has been raised by those who loved the dead statesman. The board of regents of the University were informed by the committee in charge of the fund that the money is at hand.

SUICIDE ON TRAIN.

PHILADELPHIA, March 23.—William H. Swanberg of No. 1,818 N. Twenty-sixth street, shot and killed himself on a train coming from Buffalo to Philadelphia today. He was about forty years old and is survived by a widow, one son and one daughter.

Personal Paragraphs

MRS. IDE VON CLAUSSEN, who declares she has many grievances against Uncle Sam, has asked W. J. Byrau to sue the government for a million. Her book, condemning Roosevelt, won't be accepted by a publisher anywhere.

MRS. WILLIAM H. CROCKER is racing across the United States from California on her way to Paris, where her daughter, Ethel Mary, is to undergo her third operation for appendicitis.

MARY MANNERING has been sued by a nurse to recover $990 for detective service. The nurse was employed to get evidence against James K. Hackett in a divorce suit.

EX-QUEEN LILIUOKALANI of Hawaii has gone "home to die" after unsuccessfully pressing her claim against the government for compensation for crown lands.

ENRICO CARUSO told the Kings County, New York, Grand Jury about blackmailing letters demanding $15,000. Two men were indicted.

PRESIDENT TAFT has accepted the presidency of the Woodward High School alumni (Cincinnati) and may attend a dedication.

SENATOR CULBERSON of Texas has gone to Muldoon's for treatment, his condition being alarming.

FORTY LIVE ONES ARE HARDER TO FIND THAN YOU THINK--JUST TRY

BOSTON'S "Immortals" are increasing by leaps and bounds. Several hundred men have been suggested by AMERICAN readers in the "Forty Live Ones" contest, and others are added from day to day.

The proposition is this: Who do you think are the forty Boston men NOW LIVING who are most entitled to places in a Hall of Fame? Any man living in the great metropolitan district which looks to Boston as its hub may be named.

In this contest women are not eligible, though there are a number of Boston women who would undoubtedly be awarded honors in Boston's Hall of Fame—if we ever have one. Perhaps the AMERICAN will later ask for Boston's forty most distinguished women.

The BOSTON AMERICAN offers prizes, consisting of a first prize of $10, a second prize of $5 and five prizes of $1 each for the best lists of forty.

The readers of the AMERICAN are asked to submit the names of men now living in Metropolitan Boston whose achievements entitle them to place in a Hall of Fame that may or may not be built some of these days in this city.

GIRLS COLLAPSE IN DANCE MARATHON

NEW YORK, March 23.—Five girls collapsed early to-day at the Marathon dance held in Somers Hall, Brooklyn. Sixteen couples started in the contest, which called for continuous dancing for an hour and a half, but only four teams finished. The winners, Alice Cleary and Thomas Gallano, danced five miles in the ninety minutes, winning the $25 prize. The condition of three of the girls was so serious that physicians were called. All extra clothing had been discarded, and a few of the entrants verged on the costume of a Salome dancer. The contest, in many respects, resembled a six-day bike race.

MORE PAY FOR HUGHES.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23.—The Senate to-day passed the Dana constitutional amendment, which increases the Governor's salary from $10,000 to $20,000.

TO-DAY'S CABLE NEWS
Up to Midnight, London Time

Miss Carter's Romance Endangered by Money.

LONDON.—The commercial question of a marriage settlement is rumored to have broken into the romance of Miss Mildred Carter and Viscount Acheson, with a possibility that the popular match may be broken off. It is stated that friction has been developed over the amount of the settlement. The couple's friends are hoping negotiations will prove satisfactory, as the engagement has been viewed in the light of a lovers' romance. Miss Carter is the daughter of John Ridgeley Carter, American Minister to the Balkan States, who was first secretary at London. Lord Acheson has been earning his living on the Stock Exchange.

Women Invade Countess' Trial.

VENICE.—Society women have adopted suffragette tactics in their efforts to gain admittance to the court where the Countess Tarnowska, "the Enchantress," is on trial, charged with having plotted the death of her husband, Count Kamarowski. Police Prefect Stuckart of Vienna continued his story of the Countess' actions and those of Prilukoff after their arrest. The Countess appeared most interested at that time in a toy dog she carried, and she ordered an expensive meal sent to her cell.

Pensions for 17,000,000 in France.

PARIS.—The Senate by a vote of 280 to 3 passed the workmen's pension bill. The beneficiaries are to draw their pensions at the age of sixty-five, or after thirty years of service, with certain diminutions for advanced employment. The benefit of the law, which has been modified to include in its scheme the previous old age relief law, will be enjoyed by about 17,000,000 persons.

Big Islet Sinks in Sea.

KINGSTON, Jamaica.—A schooner reports that the biggest islet of the group known as Morant Cays, situated about thirty miles east of Jamaica, has sunk under the sea to a depth of four fathoms. The cay was inhabited by egg gatherers, who were away at the time of the subsidence. It is believed that the sinking was due to an earthquake.

Sell Rare Charts in London.

LONDON.—At a sale of first editions at Sotheby's the first and second parts of "Don Quixote" brought £250. Four volumes of rare charts issued in 1778-79 by the Surveyor-General of the coasts of America brought £84. A mahogany desk, the property of the poet Burns, went for £600.

Defend Spain's Crown Prince.

MADRID.—Reports concerning the alleged physical deficiencies of the Prince of the Asturias, King Alfonso's eldest son, are condemned by Prime Minister Canalejas. He adds that he saw the Prince recently and was impressed by his alertness and intelligence.

Danish Prince to Be Farmer.

COPENHAGEN.—The tradition that Princes must follow the military profession is not to apply to the Danish royal family. Prince Erik, nephew of the King of Denmark and the King of Greece and the Queen of England, will be a farmer.

OUT-OF-ORDER KIDNEYS ACT FINE AND BACKACHE SIMPLY VANISHES.

The most effective and harmless way to cure backache and regulate out-of-order kidneys, or end bladder trouble is to take several doses of Pape's Diuretic.

You will distinctly feel that your kidney and urinary organs are being cleaned, healed and vitalized, and all the miserable symptoms, such as backache, headache, nervousness, rheumatism and darting pains, inflamed or swollen eyelids, irritability, sleeplessness, or suppressed, painful or frequent urination (especially at night) and other distress, leaving after taking the first few doses.

The moment you suspect any kidney or urinary disorder, or rheumatism, begin taking this harmless preparation as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine, at any price, made anywhere else in the world, which will effect so thorough and prompt a cure as a fifty-cent treatment of Pape's Diuretic, which any druggist can supply.

Your physician, pharmacist, banker or any mercantile agency will tell you that Pape, Thompson & Pape, of Cincinnati, is a large and responsible medicine concern, thoroughly worthy of your confidence.

Don't be miserable or worried another moment with a lame back or clogged, inactive kidneys or bladder misery. All this goes after you start taking Pape's Diuretic, and in a few days you feel and know that your kidneys, liver and urinary system are healthy, clean and normal, and all danger passed.

CONVINCING CURE OF SKIN TORTURE

Slight Red Eruption Grew to be Terrible—Sleepless Nights and Restless Days Made Life a Burden—Was Completely Discouraged.

CUTICURA CURED AFTER 16 YEARS OF SUFFERING

"For sixteen long years I have been suffering with a bad case of skin disease. While a child there broke out a red sore on the legs just in back of my knees, caused by a tight, colored garter. At first it seemed to be a slight affair but gradually it waxed from bad to worse, and at last I saw I had a bad skin disease. I tried many house remedies and also many widely known doctors in different cities but to no satisfactory result. The plague bothered me more in warm weather than in winter and being on my leg joints it made it impossible for me to walk, and I was forced to stay indoors in the warmest weather.

"My hopes of recovery were by this time spent. Sleepless nights and restless days made life an unbearable burden. At last I was advised to try the Cuticura Remedies and I did not need more than a trial to convince me that I was on the road of success this time. I bought two sets of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills) and after these were gone I was a different man entirely. The Cuticura Remedies certainly did a great deal for me, as it changed my whole career from bad to good. I am now the happiest man that there is at least one true cure for skin diseases. Leonard A. Hawtof, 11 Nostrand Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., July 30 and Aug. 8, 1909."

Rest and peace fall upon distracted households when Cuticura enters. All that the fondest of mothers desires for the alleviation of her skin-tortured and disfigured children is to be found in warm baths with Cuticura Soap and gentle anointings with Cuticura Ointment. Guaranteed absolutely pure and may be used from the hour of birth.

Cuticura Soap (25c.), Ointment (50c.), Resolvent (50c.) and Chocolate Coated Pills (25c.), are sold throughout the world. Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., 137 Columbus Ave., Boston.

"MRS. GLOVER HID ME," HATTIE SAID

Mrs. Glover testify that the machinery belonged to the corporation? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that the good will of the laundry belonged to the corporation? A.—Yes.

Thought Estate About $40,000.

Q.—Do you know the value of your brother's estate? A.—No, but I have heard through the papers that the estate was worth $40,000, and Mr. Elmore has told me that, too.

Q.—Were you surprised to learn that the laundry machinery was owned by Mrs. Glover and not by the corporation? A.—Yes.

Q.—And was the first time that you knew that the corporation did not own the machinery was when you heard Mrs. Glover testify in court that she owned it? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is Mr. Elmore your counsel? A.—He is my adviser.

Q.—Have you paid him any retainer? A.—No, but he is representing my interests.

Q.—When you were at my office, you didn't know of any proposed contest of the will, did you? A.—I don't think so.

Q.—And you didn't expect a contest of the will? A.—Yes, I did expect it, from the actions of my brothers.

Q.—Isn't it a fact that your brothers told you that if you told all that you knew of the relations between Mr. and Mrs. Glover and Hattie that they would sign any instrument drawn up by a lawyer waiving any rights to a share in their brother's estate? A.—I don't recall any such statement.

Q.—Don't you remember your brother William following you into the hall, telling you to tell the District Attorney all that you knew, urging you to come back to the room, and assuring you that your brothers would sign any paper assuring you of your entire share in your brother's estate? A.—I told all I was justified in telling at the time.

Mayor Fitzgerald Was There.

Q.—And you now say that you told the District Attorney all that you were justified in telling at the time? A.—Yes, under the surroundings I had there. I didn't know who I was up against. I didn't know what to say. You were there, and you were talking with the Mayor. I didn't know then just what I should say and what I shouldn't.

Q.—Who was the man that you shook hands with there? A.—Mayor Fitzgerald. Mr. Smith was also there, and he assured Mr. Fitzgerald that I would vote for him.

Q.—But you didn't think that the District Attorney was trying to play a game? A.—I didn't know what to think.

Q.—Did you think that he was a party to some game? A.—I didn't know. I didn't want to take any chances.

Q.—Didn't the District Attorney tell you that he was there as the prosecuting attorney of the county, and didn't he ask you to tell all that you knew, and you replied: "I don't know how far I ought to go," and didn't he say to you: "You are to go as far as the truth"? A.—I don't recall what was said.

Lawyer MacFarland then read a stenographic report of the conversation between the District Attorney and the witness in Mr. MacFarland's office. The report read as follows:

Talk With Higgins.

(Higgins) What objection can you possibly have, Mr. Glover, to telling all that you know of your brother's relation with his wife?

(Glover) I wasn't told just what I should say.

(Higgins) I'm wondering, Mr. Glover, just why you shouldn't tell me all. It isn't possible that you are trying to withhold anything from me. Why, I've just convicted a man in Lowell on less evidence than we have now in this case.

(Glover) I don't want to dispute everything that has been said here. I may have something to say, but perhaps Mr. Elmore would not like me to tell it. I don't want to say anything now.

(Higgins) Are you hand in glove with the widow, Mrs. Glover?

(Glover) No, certainly not.

(Higgins) Are you hand in glove with Hattie?

(Higgins) It doesn't make any difference, Mr. Glover, what I think or what Mr. Elmore thinks. You will have to tell all that you know, some day.

District Attorney in Court.

Attorney Elmore protested at this point that the introduction of this manuscript was a gross impropriety and unfair to the District Attorney. Judge McIntire admitted the manuscript.

Q.—Do you remember ever having said this? A.—I recall that the District Attorney mentioned the insurance case and also his saying that he wanted me to tell all that I knew.

Q.—Did you tell him all that you knew? A.—I told him all I thought I should at the time.

At this point District Attorney Higgins entered the court room. This is the first time that he has been present since the hearing opened. His arrival caused a buzz of excitement and there were rumors that a sensational move might be made in the murder mystery as a result of the will contest revelations.

Q.—Had you any idea that you were going to meet the District Attorney at my office? A.—No.

Q.—You were never alone with the District Attorney for a moment there, were you? A.—No.

Q.—Who were present while you talked with the District Attorney? A.—You, a lady stenographer and my brother Arthur, part of the time.

Referred to Quarrels.

Q.—So that when you spoke to the District Attorney you spoke to him in the presence of a lady stenographer, your brother Arthur and myself. A.—Yes.

Q.—And you would have talked to the District Attorney freely if he were alone? A.—I should.

Q.—I now read from the typewritten copy of your conversation with the District Attorney in my office:

Q.—Do you remember that the district attorney asked you whether or not you had ever heard any quarrels between your brother Clarence and his wife and that you said, "No, not what I would call a downright quarrel," and do you remember that the district attorney asked you whether or not you heard Mrs. Glover threaten your brother Clarence at any time while you lived with them and you said, "No," and that you further said, "I know she wasn't just the person she ought to be, but I don't think I ought to say anything against her character, in justice to my brother," and do you remember that the district attorney then said, "I don't want you to say anything against her character; all I want you to do is to tell the truth and state the facts, for the only way that we can get at this kind of a case is to find out who had a grudge against your brother." And do your remember that the district attorney then said to you, "Nobody has told you not to talk, have they?" and you said, "Yes, he has told me to keep quiet." Now what I want to know is, do you recall that last answer of yours? A.—I don't recall that.

"You Shouldn't Hedge."

Q. Do you remember that the District Attorney then said to you, "I have been wondering why you should be governed by counsel for Mrs. Glover. I am afraid that you are getting into trouble." And do you remember that you answered, "I want to do what is right in the matter," and do you remember that the District Attorney said, "You ought to go as far as the truth. You shouldn't hedge." And do you remember that the District Attorney then said, "What objection have you to talking freely about this case? In justice to your dear brother's memory you ought to go some ways toward clearing this matter up," and do you remember that you then said, "I have talked it over with Mr. Elmore. He is counsel in this case," and that the District Attorney then said, "Is Mr. Elmore your counsel?" and you said, "No." Do you remember that the District Attorney then said, "Is Mr. Elmore counsel for Mrs. Glover?" and you said, "Yes"? And do you remember the District Attorney then said, "Why ought you to be governed by Mrs. Glover's counsel?" and you said, "He gives me certain advice, and if I talk too much it may hurt his end." And do you remember that the District Attorney then said, "His end—he has no end"? A. I don't recall all those things, but I may have said them.

Asked Tupper's Advice.

Q.—While you were there talking in my office, did you call up Mr. Tupper and ask his advice about talking? A.—Yes, and he told me to answer any questions which I thought were right and proper—to use my own judgment. He instructed me to answer all questions that the District Attorney should ask me, but to use my own judgment as to which ones I should answer and which ones I should not.

Q.—Did Mr. Tupper tell you to answer the District Attorney freely? A.—No, he told me to answer any questions that the District Attorney put to me that I thought were right.

Q.—Then Mr. Tupper didn't tell you not to talk in the presence of others. A.—No.

Q.—Why did the District Attorney try to get Mr. Elmore later on the telephone? A.—I don't recall. I may have said something to the District Attorney about refusing to talk.

Q.—Do you recall asking for Mr. Elmore while you were at my office? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you recall Mr. Higgins calling up Waltham on the phone and getting Mr. Tupper? A.—I think so.

Irene Le Blanc Recalled.

Q.—Why did you think there was anything that might interest the district attorney in his investigation of the crime that you ought not to tell him? A.—I was instructed not to talk. I didn't want to talk. I didn't want to talk in the presence of anyone besides the district attorney.

Further examination of Seymour Glover was suspended at this point and Irene Le Blanc was called to the stand. Attorney Gove objected to Elmore's interpreter acting, but Judge McIntire allowed this, ruling that the interpreter must stand well back from the witness stand. Irene was cross-examined by Elmore.

Q.—Where did you go yesterday after leaving the court room? A.—To the office of Mr. Scott.

Q.—Where did you go before you went to Mr. Scott's office? A.—I was at Auburndale, at Mrs. Sampson's.

Q.—Didn't you go first to the House of Correction to see Hattie? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you see her? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't you then go from there to Mr. Scott's office? A.—Yes.

Supper at the Hotel.

Q.—How long did you stay at Mr. Scott's office? A.—I stayed there five or ten minutes.

Q.—What time did you get out to Auburndale? A.—Nine-thirty.

Q.—Where did you go after you left Mr. Scott's office? A.—I went and took supper.

Q.—Who went with you to supper? A.—I, Lillian, Miss Morrill, Mrs. Sampson, Mr. Glover, Mr. Scott and another, I don't know his name.

Q.—Which Mr. Glover? A.—I don't recall his name.

Q.—Where did you go? A.—To the hotel.

Q.—What hotel? A.—I don't remember the name.

Q.—Where was it with reference to Mr. Scott's office? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you talk with Mr. Scott about your testimony yesterday? A.—No.

Q.—Did you say anything to him about the case? A.—No.

Q.—Did you sleep at Mrs. Sampson's, in Auburndale, last night? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you sleep there the night before? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you sleep there last Thursday night? A.—No.

Q.—Where did you sleep? A.—At Newton.

Q.—At whose house? A.—Kate Le Blanc's.

Girl Close to Collapse.

The witness was then questioned in detail as to who her Gloucester relations were.

Q.—When you first came here from Gloucester, who brought you to the court room? A.—Mrs. Davis.

At this point Irene showed signs of breaking down. She wiped her handkerchief over her face several times, and then Elmore, noticing her apparent distress, asked her if she would like some water. She replied "yes," and a glass was brought. After she drank it she appeared refreshed and the color again appeared in her cheeks.

Q.—Did you have any trouble with your relative at Gloucester last week? A.—No.

Q.—Was there any trouble between Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Sampson last week? A.—No.

Never Told Mrs. Sampson.

Q.—Was it intended that Mrs. Sampson should bring you up here? A.—Yes.

Q.—When was it intended that she should bring you here. A.—She told me if I called here she would bring me here.

Q.—Have you talked with Mrs. Joseph Sampson of Gloucester since giving your testimony here? A.—No.

Q.—Did you talk it over much with Mrs. Joseph Sampson before you came here? A.—No.

Q.—Then you never told her what Hattie told you? A.—No.

Q.—Did you talk it over much with Mrs. Davis before you came here? A.—No.

Q.—Did you talk it over with Mrs. Davis at Gloucester? A.—Yes.

Q.—Didn't Mrs. Davis say that you were telling lies in this court? A.—No.

Q. Are you sure about that? A. Yes, sir.

Q.—Will you look at the handwriting on that letter. (Elmore handed the witness a letter). Whose is it? A. I do not know it.

Q. Are you sure? A. Yes.

Q. Have you ever seen Mrs. Davis's handwriting? A. She does not write.

Letter Offered as Evidence.

Q. Have you ever seen her daughter's handwriting? A. Yes, but she doesn't write as well as that. (The witness pointed at the letter, which she still held in her hand.)

Q.—Do you call that good handwriting? A. No, but the girl does not write as well as that.

Q.—What does it say on that letter? A.—I don't know; I cannot read it.

Attorney Elmore then said: "I offer this letter, the envelope of which is dated Gloucester, March 19."

Attorney Gove jumped to his feet and said: "I object now to anything that Mr. Elmore may say regarding that letter. No one has identified it, and he has no right to say what it contains until it has been identified."

Elmore said that he hoped to connect it later on with Irene's testimony.

Judge McIntire ruled that he could not accept the letter in evidence until it had been identified.

Attorney Elmore pleaded to be allowed to say what he expected to prove by it, but Judge McIntire was obdurate.

Conversation With Hattie.

Q.—Did Mrs. Davis or Miss Davis say they were going to write a statement to me that you didn't care what lies you told here? A.—No.

Q.—When you testified yesterday, you spoke only of the conversation which Hattie had behind her hand with you? Is that so? A.—Yes.

Q.—That is the only conversation with Hattie in regard to which you testified? A.—Yes.

Q.—And that was two weeks after Mr. Glover was killed? A.—I told you it was the last week I was there, and it was two weeks after Mr. Glover was killed that Hattie said that she had not done, but that Mrs. Glover had done it.

Q.—Don't you remember testifying yesterday that the conversation that you had with Hattie, in which she said that she did not do it and that Mrs. Glover did, took place two weeks after his death? A.—It was two weeks after the death of Mr. Glover that Hattie told me that she had not done it.

Q.—When was it that she told you that Mrs. Glover did it? A.—She told it to me last week. It was Wednesday.

Referred to Captain King.

Q.—Don't you remember testifying yesterday that it was two weeks after Mr. Glover's death that she told you that? A.—No.

Q.—The conversation that Hattie had with you was said behind her hand, wasn't it? A.—Yes.

There was a stir in the court room at this point when District Attorney Higgins and Attorney Tupper left the court room together. They returned, however, in a few minutes.

Q.—Did you know Earnest Covan at West Arichat? A.—Yes.

Q.—What is his business? A.—Cafetier.

Q.—Did Hattie know Earnest? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you know Captain Peter King at West Arichat? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was his business? A.—Navigator.

Q.—How near your house does he live? A.—Pretty near. About five minutes walk.

Hattie Lived at King's.

Q.—Did Hattie ever live at Captain King's? A.—Yes, she stayed there.

Q.—Is Captain King married? A.—He was. His wife is dead.

Q.—Was she alive when Hattie lived at Captain King's house? A.—No.

Q.—Who kept house for Captain King? A.—His daughter, who is married.

Q.—And the daughter's husband also lived at the house? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Captain King carry on any business while he was on land? A.—No.

Q.—Did he run a hotel? A.—No.

Q.—Was his house a public house in any sense? A.—No.

Q.—Was it a lodging house? A. Yes.

Q.—Did you know Michael Le Blanc? A.—Yes.

Q.—What was his business? A.—He belongs to the Middle Acre ground. He goes out fishing.

Q.—Did Hattie know Michael Le Blanc? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have you told anybody here that nobody at West Arichat liked Hattie, because she was such a liar? A.—No.

Q.—Are you sure? A.—Yes.

"Hattie is Truthful."

Q.—Is Hattie truthful? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Lillian ever tell anybody in your presence that Hattie was a bad girl and that she stayed out nights? A.—No.

Q.—Did Hattie stay out late nights before coming to Boston? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ever hear Lillian tell anybody that your father said Hattie was a bad girl? A.—No.

This concluded the cross-examination of Irene. Attorney Elmore then introduced eleven candy boxes as evidence. Attorney Jesse L. Gove took up the re-direct examination of the witness:

Q.—How many times have you seen Hattie since Mr. Glover's death? A.—Five or six times.

Q.—Where did you see her the first time? A.—I saw her in the prison in Cambridge.

Q.—Have you seen her any other place but the prison since Glover's death? A.—No.

Q.—Who was present the first time you saw her at the prison in Cambridge? A.—Mrs. Davis, Lillian and Mrs. White.

Q.—Where does Mrs. White live? A.—At Gloucester.

Q.—What was your talk with Hattie at that time?

(Elmore objected to Gove going into any conversation that Irene had with Hattie except the one in which Hattie said she did not kill Glover and accused Mrs. Glover. Judge McIntire ruled that Gove might go ahead.)

Q.—I understand you to say that on your first visit to the prison that Hattie said that she did not kill Mr. Glover? A.—Yes.

Q.—Tell us all that Hattie said. Give us the whole conversation. A.—I asked her if Mrs. Glover knew that she was in the Glover house the night of the murder, and she said yes. She told me she stayed in the Glover house Saturday night, the night that he was killed, and had supper Sunday night with Mrs. Glover. I asked her if it was Mrs. Glover who made her hide under the bed, and she said: "Yes, it was Mrs. Glover who made me hide, against my will."

Q.—What else did Hattie tell you at that time? A.—She told me she had to do just as Mrs. Glover told her.

"Mrs. Glover That Shot Him."

Q.—Did she say who ate supper in the Glover house Sunday night? A.—No.

Q.—Did she say whom she saw in the house while she was there up to the time she was found under the bed? A.—No.

Q.—Did you ask her where she was from Saturday night until Tuesday night. A.—No.

Q.—Was anything more said between you and Hattie at that first interview which you had which you now recall? A.—No.

Q.—When was the last time you talked with her when she said she didn't do the shooting? A.—It was last Wednesday when she told me she didn't do the shooting, and that it was Mrs. Glover who shot him.

Q.—Was there any such talk before last Wednesday and after your first talk? A.—No.

Q.—What was the talk between you and her last Wednesday? A.—I asked Hattie if she had done the shooting. She told me it was not she; that she did not have the heart to do anything like that. I asked her if she knew who did it. She said, "It was Mrs. Glover, the ——"

Hattie Sure of Being Freed.

Q.—Did she talk any more other than the words you have just uttered? A.—She said she knew she would be freed, because she did not do the shooting.

Q.—Did you and Hattie last Wednesday talk in reference to where she was hiding after the shooting? A.—No.

Q.—Who is Captain Peter King? A.—I don't know whose son he is.

Q.—How old a man is he? A.—He is quite aged.

Q.—Is he older than your father? A.—Yes.

Q.—How many years has his daughter, who lives with him, been married? Has it been many years? A.—Yes.

Q.—Has she children? A.—Yes, six.

Q.—Are they as old as you? A.—No.

Q.—Was Captain King a man who stood well in the community of West Arichat? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do the people now hold him in high esteem? A.—Yes.

Q.—Have they always done so? A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you know Michael Le Blanc by sight? A.—Yes.

Q.—How long have you known him? A.—I knew him last Summer.

Q.—Did you know him before that? A.—Yes, I knew him. He came to our house.

Where Girl Got Her Meals?

Q.—Hattie wasn't home when he came there, was she? A.—No.

Q.—Is he as old as Captain King. A.—No.

Q.—Do you know his reputation in the community? A.—They thought he was a good boy.

Q.—What was his reputation in the community for honesty? A.—All that I heard people say was that they had never met a better fellow. He was very quiet.

Q.—How long have you known Ernest Covant? A.—A long time. He is my mother's relation. He is nearly as old as my mother.

Q.—Are you the oldest of your mother's children? A.—Yes.

Q.—And Mrs. Davis of Gloucester is you half sister? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did she go with you each time that you went to the prison? A.—No, they all took turns in going.

Q.—Did Hattie tell you at the first interview after Mr. Glover's death or in the interview last Wednesday where she got her meals from Saturday night, the night Mr. Glover was killed, until Tuseday night the night she was taken out from under the bed? A.—No.

This closed the re-direct examination and Attorney Elmore then asked:

Q.—When Hattie told you two weeks after Mr. Glover's death that she did not kill Mr. Glover, did you believe her? A.—Yes, I believed her.

Repeats Story of Girl.

Q.—If you believed her then, why did you ask her last Wednesday if she did it? A.—I again asked her to assure myself if she had done it.

Q.—Did you ask her because you doubted what she said two weeks after Mr. Glover's death? A.—Yes.

Q.—What did Hattie say to you last Wednesday? A.—I asked her if she had done such a thing and she said that she had not done it—that Mrs. Glover had done it, the ——"

Q.—Will you tell just what Hattie said at the prison? A.—She told me she had not done it. I asked her if Mrs. Glover knew she was in the house and Hattie said yes. I asked her if she knew that she was hiding under the bed. Hattie said, "Yes, it was she who put me there." She also told me that she was doing just what Mrs. Glover told her. She told me that she was obliged to do what Mrs. Glover told her to do.

Q.—Have you now told all that Hattie told you? A.—Yes, that's all.

Q.—Have you said that Hattie told you at that time that she took dinner or supper in the kitchen with Mrs. Freeman on the Sunday nights after Mr. Glover's death? A.—No.

Court Adjourns for the Day.

Q.—Did you tell a newspaper man that Hattie said she had taken supper that night with anybody? A.—No.

Q.—Did you tell a newspaper man that Hattie told you she saw the police flash a flashlight under the bed but that they did not see Hattie? A.—I did no say that.

Q.—Are you sure? A.—Yes.

Q.—Are you sure that you did tell a reporter that Mr. Elmore let you in the house on Sunday? A.—Yes.

This completed the examination of Irene. Court adjourned until 9:30 to-morrow morning. There was no session this afternoon, as many of those connected with the case attended the funeral of former Mayor Sortwell of Cambridge. Lillian Le Blanc will take the witness stand to-morrow morning.

MAYOR RAPS FINANCE BOARD

"You, the State Legislature, are borrowing money to build highways. If I did such a thing at City Hall the Finance Commission would haul me over the coals and raise all kinds of ructions. You do it and it's all right. I do it, and it's a crime," said Mayor Fitzgerald before the legislative Committee on Roads and Bridges to-day in an argument for a bill to give Boston part of the automobile license fees collected by the State.

The expenses of the Boston park department have increased amazingly, he said, and Boston is faced with the problem of either paying exorbitant sums for the maintenance of its parkway roads or else closing up the parkways if the State doesn't help her. The increased damage to the roads is due to the automobiles, he said.

The Mayor also took a side shot at the Finance Commission for attacking him for borrowing money to build highways while the State did the same thing without protest from anyone.

"When I assumed office this year," he said, "I was amazed in looking over the city's financial condition, to notice the great increase in the expenditures of the park department. Four or five years ago this department spent only $215,000, but this year it asks for $465,000. It is a department that has always escaped criticism, and one in which there is no politics, so the increase cannot be attributed to that cause."

BATH TRUSTEES DEFY MAYOR

A political bombshell exploded in City Hall to-day when it was announced that the Board of Bath Trustees had refused to carry out the instruction from Mayor Fitzgerald to dismiss General Superintendent Joseph O'Brien and a woman executive clerk of the bath department. The Board demands evidence of "pernicious political activity on the part of any employe in the department."

Here is a copy of the letter sent Mayor Fitzgerald to-day:

"The Board of Bath Trustees has considered the question as to its office employes, which was discussed at the conference last Friday. The Board met to-day, and, by a majority, voted 'that it saw no reason for making any change in its office force. The Board will hear any evidence which may be presented of pernicius political activity on the part of any employe in the office of the department, and, if necessary, will take further action.'"

BIG SURPRISES SPRUNG IN ARMORY CLUB BOUTS

BRONSON KNOCKS OUT O'KEEFE

By I. S. CLARK.

Never was there a bigger surprise at the result of fistic battle in the local ring than that which hapened at the Armory A. A. last night, when Tommy O'Keefe, the star Philadelphia lightweight, was knocked out in the third round by Ray Bronson of Indianapolis. It was a right-hand smash on the kidney that did the business, and came like a thunder clap out of a clear sky, for O'Keefe ruled a strong 10 to 6 favorite, but the fighting character of Bronson was too greatly underrated.

It was the most dramatic finish seen in the club's arena for a long time. Bronson, who got the cue to keep on top as his only chance of winning, did so to perfection, and carried the battle to the Quaker with the fierceness of a young demon, driving away with either hand, when suddenly O'Keefe dropped to the mat, rolled over and over in intense agony, while a roar went up that shook the roof at the unexpected scene of seeing O'Keefe a writhing mass on the resined canvas, while Referee Flaherty tolled off the seconds.

O'Keefe gamely struggled to his feet before the fatal count of ten, but was completely paralyzed from the terrific bolt he received on the kidney, and his legs wobbled as he tried to assume a fighting position.

O'Keefe Goes Down.

He backed to the ropes, but Bronson rushed in and easily dropped him, as O'Keefe had no control of his underpinnings, but he was down only a few seconds, while the fans went frantic at the prospects of seeing Bronson win in quick order over one of the most popular fighters who ever stepped in the ring.

Bronson waited on the opposite side of the ring till his disabled opponent got straightened out but before he could make an onslaught the referee stepped in between them and O'Keefe was assisted to his corner.

While Bronson got all the praise due a victor there was widespread sympathy offered O'Keefe over defeat as it was realized that the result was something of a lucky punch that Bronson slipped over.

Very few were in position to see the punch delivered as Bronson was crowding O'Keefe at the time. But the Quaker went down as if hit with an axe and the intense pain he suffered was only too evident by his contortions on the mat.

Bronson made the hit of his life with the fans by the way he battled. Only a few thought he could hold the pace that the Quaker was known to set and his past performances here made him appear unbeatable even by such a good boy as the Hoosier was classed, but the Indiana boxer knocked expectations higher than a kite by the quick way he dropped his foe. He captured the house by storm for it was one of the greatest upsets in the history of the fighting game.

Bronson Knocked Down.

It looked like Bronson's downfall in the opening round when he was toppled twice by O'Keefe running his head into the Quaker's drives to the head, but he never stopped in his efforts to land his punch and got over a damaging right in the second inning which caused O'Keefe to lose some of his speed and the score was evened up with much depending on the next round. It was all over but the shouting before the session was half finished.

It was excellent judgment Bronson used from the outset in fighting such a speedometer as O'Keefe. He tested his strength and hitting powers against the rapid fire action of the Quaker and gained a big advantage by being the aggressor as soon as the working signal sounded.

He went to O'Keefe immediately, holding the Quaker off with some snappy jabs with his left, O'Keefe being busy blocking and keeping a lookout for Bronson's right which he was rattling around his jaw too freely.

The only chance O'Keefe had was planting his short, deadly hooks while Bronson was wading in and he snapped them over to good effect in the opening round when Bronson staggered back from the effects.

Beginning of the End.

When O'Keefe began to break ground in the second round before Bronson's unerring left there was consternation in the ranks of the Quaker's supporters which was only increased when Bronson shifted and swung a solid right on the jaw that made O'Keefe tie up quickly and he was unable to do much in the execution line for the rest of the round.

Then came the third round with Bronson still on the job in carrying the attack and he piled in with right and left swings till he connected with the disastrous one to the body which took all the fight out of O'Keefe.

There was a pretty sore crowd of Lowellites that wended its way back to the Spindle City because their idol, Jimmy Moriarty, got the short end of the decision in the eight-round bout with Honey Mellody.

Some great things were expected from Jimmy evidently as the rooters made it known that he was there to take the Honey Boy's scalp. When the award was rendered in Mellody's favor the Lowell delegation must have been looking through the wrong end of the glasses for a big howl went up for a new referee.

Moriarty made one big mistake. He insisted in boxing with Mellody instead of swapping with him a thing he could do to his own credit as he showed in the last round but his flash in the windup availed him nothing as Mellody beat him in every round preceding.

Mellody the Aggressor.

Mellody occupied the center of the stage most of the time with Moriarty striking attitudes to meet Honey's desperate plunges to land his haymaker. If Honey hadn't been active the bout would have dragged as Moriarty appeared to have lead in his arms when he could have easily made it interesting for the Bunker Hill boy had he opened up a bit.

It was so warm in the second round that Moriarty may have decided to go along carefully for Mellody almost put him down with a left clip on the jaw and tried to finish him by slamming for the jaw with both hands.

Even the Bronson victory did not make a bigger stir than the fighting of a new comer by the name of Johnny Hogan who was fetched over from Philadelphia to substitute for Oscar Martin in a bout with Eddie Shevlin, the Stock Exchange bumpologist. The general feeling that Shevlin had been handed lemons to annihilate seemed to be realized when Eddie began to pummel the life out of the Quaker in the first round and yells to let the visitor off in the second were turned to cheers when Hogan scored a couple of knockdowns and showed that he packed the worst kind of a sting in either mitt.

Hogan Had a Wallop.

Shevlin kept Hogan's head bobbing with a tattoo of rights and lefts, or smashed on the body, in every round, which seemed the last for Hogan. When Shevlin tired from his own exertions Hogan always came back with a swing which was a pippin. He took a fearful lacing, but never lost the ginger in that welt which he sprung on Shevlin and sent him off his balance from the force. There was only one way to give the decision, as Shevlin earned it, but Hogan and his great wallop will not be forgotten for a long time.

The first shock the talent got came quickly, when Max Landy got his in four rounds from Young Dyson of Pawtucket. Landy stopped everything Dyson offered in the way of hard swings with his head, and was put down in the second round. After that he was never in the bout, and Dyson cut him up, the action of the referee stopping the slaughter in the fourth round, saving Landy from being undermined.

BLOW MUST HAVE BEEN TO JAW, THINKS O'KEEFE

Every fight fan who attended the show at the Armory A. A. last night is anxious to get the straight dope on the O'Keefe and Bronson bout. As has been printed, the blow that won the battle for Bronson was delivered in a clinch, and no one seemed able to tell just where the wallop had landed. That it had landed was evident from the way O'Keefe went to the floor.

O'Keefe and his manager, Billy Reynolds, called at the AMERICAN office this morning, not to put up any yell that Tommy was out of condition or any other stall, but just to say in a modest way that they would like another crack at the Hoosier.

The way O'Keefe sizes the bout up is this: "Just tough luck, I think. I don't want to take any of the glory from Bronson, for he's a real good boy, the best I've struck, but I think I should get another match with him, if it is only for a purse of a dollar. I don't think he's my master, even though I was defeated last night.

"I don't know where the blow landed, but it must have been on my jaw, for I haven't a sore spot on my body. It couldn't have been on the kidneys for I would feel sore there this morning. I just got careless after knocking him down in the first round and tossed my guard to the winds, thinking I could get a knockout punch over right quickly. Just another match is all I want."

Bronson's words after the fight seemed to bear Tommy out in his statement about his careless guard. Bronson said: "He got careless and forgot to block the right to the jaw that ended the fight."

AUTOISTS WILL MAKE FIGHT

By J. C. KERRISON.

The petition of Mayor Fitzgerald that 25 per cent. of the automobile registration and licensing fees be applied to the city of Boston is being given a hearing by the committee on roads and bridges at the State House this morning. The proposition will unquestionably be fought most energetically by a great many persons, the Highway Commission and the individual motorists, both of whom argue that the intent was and should be to apply the receipts of this department for the construction and maintenance of State highways, and not for park purposes. The receipts from the motor department will this year be greater than ever, but it is pointed out that the cost of construction and maintenance will likewise be greater and that the commission will not be overburdened by a surplus.

The officials of the Quaker City Motor Club are making preparations to award prizes to the entrants of all the cars that compete in the third annual roadability run of the organization from Philadelphia to Atlantic City on Saturday, April 30. It would appear that the Philadelphia organization has given up the idea of having commercial motor vehicles in the event, as the entry blanks state the contest is open to all pleasure cars and no mention is made of a division for business automobiles.

The Association of Licensed Automobile Manufacturers will give, on April 17, at the Hotel Astor, New York, a dinner, which will be attended by the officers of the eighty or more automobile manufacturing companies licensed under the Selden patent. The occasion will, of course, be representative of the automobile industry.

MEDFORD IN FIELD WITH STRONG NINE

Medford will be represented on the diamond this year by a strong nine and the men have already been out for practice, twenty reporting on the opening day.

The first game will be played April 19 on the Medford High School field and Manager Fabello wants to arrange dates with the strongest amateur teams in the State.

The team has secured the services of John Rogers, the wonderful twirler, who has had a great record in the box for the past two years. He won seventeen out of twenty-four games in 1908 and last year only lost four out of twenty-two.

Ralph Blanchard has been elected captain of the team and will direct the work of the players.

Life and Battles of Jim Jeffries---No. 6

By TAD.

CHAPTER VIII.

The first really favorable notice that Jim Jeffries received after he had elected to try his fortunes in San Francisco and the pugilistic ring came through a mere accident. The big fellow was living and training at the Union Coursing Park White House at the time, aur by a feat of strength that seemed almost superhuman to the persons who were fortunate enough to witness it, got a lot of space in the papers.

The White House is located on Mission road, the big artery into 'Frisco, and along it there passed an almost endless procession of wagons, toting vegetables to the city.

The market gardeners carry this produce to San Francisco in wagons—or they did some years ago—and the way was none too good. After a heavy rain the whole procession was stalled one afternoon through the disablement of one of the trucks. This got stuck in the mud less than a quarter of a mile from the White House. The wagon behind tried to pass around the outside, but, hitting a rut, smashed an axle. This blocked the road completely, and there was great woe among the thrifty Italians, who had had visions of a golden harvest when they reached 'Frisco.

Along the road came a bunch of huskies, plodding away as though their lives depended upon reaching 'Frisco in time that would make Sprinter Arthur Duffey look sick. Towering above the six men in the party was Jim Jeffries. Jeffries stopped and, grabbing the wheel that was in difficulty, put the power of his tremendous shoulders into the effort and the procession moved along.

CHAPTER IX.

That Jeffries looked to be far from a possible champion at this time was proved when the "experts" of the ring sized him up. They one and all—except Billy Delaney—agreed that he was purely a "strong man"; a man who could possibly make his mark in the vaudeville theatres if he studied the tricks of the trade, but that he was a fighter was utterly impossible. He was too slow and too cautious. There was no doubt about the heft of his wallop, his willingness to train and his ability to assimilate anything in the line of wallops that came his way.

Among the latter day "forty-niners"—and there were a lot of them—was Barney Foley. Mr. Foley kept a "giumlli" at Mission road and Ingleside avenue, and was so much looked up to by the general run of fighters and trainers that he was counted an expert of the greatest magnitude.

Farley heard of the prowess of Jim Jeffries as early as, if not earlier than the rest of 'Frisco, and he hustled to the White House to look over the coming champion of the world. He had been told that the giant from Los Angeles was sure to make good, and he wanted to be in on the play.

Greatly to the disappointment of Farley and his friend, Jack Dunn, they found about ten other famous handlers at the training quarters when they got there. In the bunch was Billy Delaney. The latter had already seen Jeffries in training and had satisfied himself that the boilermaker was good.

Jeffries came out to spar with Gallagher. Expert eyes were trained upon his every move, and it is safe to say that nothing he did failed to be weighed in the scales by every man at the "ringside."

Farley announced that he would rather take up a bantam and make a world's heavyweight champion of him than try to make Jeffries lick a stamp, and to the rest of the spectators this was the doom of Jeffries. Delaney was the only man who had nothing to say for publication. The only thing shown by Jeffries was a fairly good left hand. This was natural to him, for he was born left-handed. Delaney knew this, and upon this banked his chance of making a great fighter out of Jeffries.

RED SOX ARE PLAYING FAST

By A. H. C. MITCHELL.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 23.—Manager Donovan has come to the conclusion that he agreed to play too many games with the Cincinnati crowd and he now regrets that he did not suggest to Griffith that the clubs meet every other day instead of daily.

The grind of going against the same club day after day is beginning to tell on all hands.

It may be that Donovan will suggest to Griffith that they cut out some of the remaining nine games.

Our boys are going along as well as could be expected. There is a lame ankle that Arellanes complains of, bad legs on Pat Donohue and so on, but on the whole the manager could not ask his men to be in better shape. Harry Niles sprung a Charlie Horse in yesterday's game, but the injury is not serious.

Ray Collins decided at the last minute that he would like to work so he received Manager Donovan's permission to pitch a few innings. He was particularly instructed not to extend himself. He pitched five rounds and did very well. He confessed that his arm isn't strong.

Bescher, the first man up, cracked him for a long home run in the first inning, and in the second the Reds found him for two doubles and a single, but after that what they did was not noticeable. Hall then pitched two innings and was hit once in each round.

The Cincinnati camp is all upset over the didos of Larry McLean, the catcher. Larry got off the reservation and refused to attend Griff's semi-weekly school for ball players. Griff told him that unless he publicly apologized to him, he would not have him in the team.

Big Larry has until to-morrow night to make his peace with Griffith. In the meantime he is under suspension. McLean declared he will not apologize.

"If they let me go they will lose the brains of the club," is the way the modest big catcher puts it.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES.

Cy Young leaves to-day for Little Rock, where he joins the Cleveland Club that has a series to play with the Cardinals. Uncle Cy is in splendid condition, but is somewhat weak from the baths. He has been here since February 25.

Treasurer McBreen, accompanied by Carl A. Barrett, one of the newspaper correspondents, also leaves to-day. They will go to Boston by way of St. Louis. Both have enjoyed their trip, and wish they could stay longer.

Colonel Labold of Cincinnati gave a dinner at the Arkansas Club to President Dreyfus and Manager Clarke of the Pirates, Manager Griffith of the Reds, and the Cincinnati newspaper men.

Tris Speaker is beginning to hit the ball. He got in four safeties and ran the bases like a fiend.

"Bescher will never make another home run off me as long as he lives," declared Ray Collins after the game. "It was my first time out and I have been putting them over the plate for our batters to hit. I forgot myself for a moment when Bescher faced me and gave him one waist high that cut the plate in two. What he did to it was a plenty."

Duffey Lewis is bewailing the loss of his batting eye. "Gee, I can't seem to see them at all," said he, "but I know I can hit them when I am right."

WINNER WILL FIGHT CURTIS

The bouts at the American Athletic Club to-morrow night are attracting more attention than anything that has yet been held by the North End organization. Johnny Glover and Ralph Tickle, who are down on the bill in the wind up, have been notified by the club that the winner will be matched to meet Eddie Curtis, who just returned from France, after cleaning up all the best they had on the other side.

Next in importance to the Glover-Tickle mill is the go between Eddie Golden, the ex-amateur crack of this city, and Steve Kennedy of Lawrence, who is touted as the goods by the Lawrence fans, and they cannot see "Snap" Cohen's champion in the running.

Two other bouts between Pat Rocco of Haverhill and Jimmy Hanlon of this city, and Barney Riley of South Boston and Kid Lee of Chelsea, make up the rest of the night's sport. Many new applications for membership have been made in the new club since the office in the Winthrop Building was opened a few days ago.

LOUGHREY WINS WITH BROKEN HAND

NEW YORK, March 23.—Although he broke his hand in the fifth round of a ten-round fight with Dave Ryan of Brooklyn at the Fairmount A. C., Young Loughrey of Philadelphia scored an easy victory. That Ryan was not knocked out was due to Loughrey's accident.

MIKE GLOVER MAKES GOOD.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Mike Glover of Boston proved a good substitute for Matty Rowan of Brooklyn in the star bout at Brown's gymnasium. Glover took on Billy Leary of New Jersey and outpointed him in ten fast rounds.

YOUNG BRITT DOWN, BUT GETS DRAW

BALTIMORE, Md., March 23.—Young Britt outfought Phil McGovern in a fifteen-round battle. McGovern, with a short right, hit Britt after ten seconds of fiddling in the first round. The blow went to the point of the jaw. Britt fell like a log. Britt beat the count, but was sent down twice again in the round. He recuperated in the minute's rest and proved the better man in a hard fought battle in a majority of the next fourteen rounds. Jack McGuigan declared the battle a draw.

$3.50 Recipe Cures Weak Men---Free

Send Name and Address To-day—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, failing memory and lame back, brought on by overwork or any cause, that has cured so many worn and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain his power and vitality, quickly and quietly, should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription free of charge in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men and I am convinced it is the surest-acting combination for the cure of lost strength ever put together.

I think I owe it to my fellow men to send them a copy in confidence so that any man anywhere, who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what I believe is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home quietly and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Dr. A. E. Robinson, 4548 Luck Building, Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid recipe in a plain ordinary envelope free of charge. A great many doctors would charge $3.00 to $5.00 for merely writing out a prescription like this—but I send it entirely free.

TY COBB TRAINS AUGUSTA NINE TO BEAT DOVES

By W. H. ROSS.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—Peaches Graham's nine of pitchers are certainly beginning to produce a fine article of baseball, and their batting is quite astonishing. The pitchers are not putting much on the ball at present, but all of them have speed.

Bill Cooney has done better at the bat than any man on the team to date. In the second game he was four times up and on each occasion larruped out a single. He lands on the ball hard, and most of his hits tear up the grass. His fielding in the second game was a great improvement over hte work he did in the first. He made one of the finest one-handed stops ever seen on the local ball field, and it had to be scored as a hit, for he failed to get the sphere across in time to nail the runner. When Cooney gets some big league experience he ought to become a valuable man, if he can hit in pennant race games the way he has at the training camp.

Field Was A Quagmire.

Around second base the mud was ankle deep and Bill Sweeney said that when he hit the ground there in sliding to the sack it was like a dive across a feather bed. If Lew Richie hadn't been taking a nap at third on one occasion yesterday, he could have scored and saved the Peaches from a second shutout. But during a play at second base Lew neglected to sprint for the plate and made old Cap Graham tired.

Leon Martel hasn't had a mask on yet and the team has no idea how he will shape up as a catcher except from reputation, but he looks and acts like a real ball player. He has already shown his teammates something at bat. Philadelphia would probably have never let go of this player if Manager Murry had remained boss of the club.

Lake Won't Umpire.

Manager Fred Lake says he isn't going to do any more umpiring. He is not actuated in this because of kicking over his decisions. He runs the game all right when he is out there as arbitrator and in fact shows considerable class at the work. He also keeps things moving like a limited express.

Ty Cobb wants to beat the Doves with his Augusta team on Saturday next and no sooner do the Bostons leave the field than the great Detroit star leads his lads out to take possession. Manager Noreum runs the Augusta team in the morning but in the afternoon lets Ty take hold as field foreman.

Yesterday Ty started a scrub game as soon as the Doves and Peaches retired and captained the nine which is to go against Boston. Ty played third sack and set the pace. He put a lot of pepper into the Augusta team. All hands tried to keep up with Cobb and therefore had to go some. He was all over the lot. But he disappointed the crowd, which expected to see him knock the cover of the ball, when he came up to the bat with one man down and two on bases.

JEFF WILL USE SAM LANGFORD

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—It developed during the muddy morning session at the Jeffries camp that Langford may be added to the champion's staff of sparring partners during the last ten days or two weeks of work at the Rowardenan quarters.

Woodman came up the hill back of the Jeffries residence in a roaring automobile just at a time when Jim was busily engaged in explaining to Big Ed Walsh and Harry Sutor of the Chicago White Sox, the daily regime of mixed work and play that he intended adopting when he opens his northern camp on April 1 or 2.

"How would you like to have Langford work with you for speed alone?" asked Ducky Sam's manager.

"Just the ticket. Would he do it?" asked Jeffries.

"Sure, and glad to do it. We are coming straight back to the coast after the bout with Ketchel in Philadelphia. I'll wire you when we arrive and arrange to ship Langford up to you to put the finishing touches to your speed stunts."

The rain and slush failed to bother Jeff. He was out hacking away at the woodpile as early as 8 o'clock with Bob Armstrong sitting contentedly under a big tree with his umbrella hoisted.

Jim has a slight cold in the head and it is good for a laugh to hear him talk about it.

KETCHEL SAYS HE WILL WIN

PITTSBURG, March 23.—Sporting Editor, Boston American:

Made the weight easy. Don't let my friends worry about the title or the effects of the Johnson fight. He hurt me less than Hugo Kelly.

STANLEY KETCHEL.

The above dispatch speaks for itself, or, more to the point, speaks for Stanley Ketchel. This young Michigan bearcat always was full of confidence. He never could see why Jeffries should beat him until he jammed up against Johnson's trained fists. Now he knows differently, experience being the best teacher. But if Ketchel is the old Ketchel, there seems no particular reason for worry to-night.

Frank Klaus, whom he is to meet, is a tough bruising fighter; Stanley is tougher.

JOHNSON HAS LOT MORE BOTHER COMING

CHICAGO, March 23.—Heavyweight champion Jack Johnson will have more trouble on his hands when he returns to Chicago, after his New York case is disposed of. STRAIGHT DOPE
FOR SPORT FANS

I HAVE BEEN WONDERING EVER since last night just what kind of a wallop put Tommy O'Keefe out at the Armory last night, and after reading the morning papers I am more at sea than ever. Here's the way they have it:

Herald—"A drive to the kidney."

Journal—"A stiff solar plexus."

Post—"An unfortunate accident. A wrenched knee."

Globe—"A punch to the kidney."

It is likely that the two scribes who discovered the punch to the kidney were sitting together and compared notes. I was watching pretty closely and I was unable to see where Bronson landed the wallop that started O'Keefe rolling about the floor. Maffit Flaherty says he did not see it.

After the bout I asked Ray Bronson and he said it was a short arm jolt to the jaw while he and O'Keefe were in a clinch. In view of the fact that Bronson sent the punch home, I'm going to take his word for it until I get later advices. So for mine it goes as a short, hard jolt to the jaw. How did you see it?

WELL, ANOTHER OF WILLUS BRITT Levins' champions refused to champ with any degree of success last night, and there is more mourning in the camp of the boy manager. Max Landy, the small boy with the man's size punch, got his'n and got it plenty. Max is a real good youngster and he made valiant efforts to send home that awful kick, but there was nothing stirring. Young Dyson, who is also some boy, sent his home first. Willus Britt says the defeat won't hurt his champ, and that he will start right in champing again. At that, Landy will take care of a whole lot of the best of the little fellows.

THERE WAS ONE MISGUIDED PERson in the big bunch of Lowellites who were at the Armory last night to root for Moriarty, who didn't allow Honey Mellody to hit the Lowell scrapper below the neck. This bug sat not a great ways from me and every time Honey walloped one to his opponent's body, the bug would hiss his fool head off and yell foul. He should have painted a line about Moriarty's throat and then told Mellody what it was there for.

A. T. C. GREENFIELD, MASS.—YOU write with the callowness of youth, and, taking the tip from that I should say I have been in the game about as long as you have been on earth, I will have to admit that I have not had the superior advantages of long residence in a metropolis like Greenfield, so it is not likely that I know as much as you do. We can't all be of your calibre, A. T., and, good knows, a lot of us do not want to.

I SEE THAT ONE OF THEM STERling young writers who has went away to the South with Dovey's Doves comes clean with the statement that our old side kick, Cecil Ferguson, has at last got his wing going as it should. Well, I'm mighty glad he has, for several reasons. First, when Cecil (get wise to that name—it's a nice lady-like one for a pitcher) isn't right and takes an upward movement along about the sixth inning, as he did last year and the year before, it causes me to say many things which I can't print. Then, again, if he's right, Fred Lake will have a good man on his twirling staff. Another reason is that Ferguson seems like a pretty nice young fellow, and we're all strong for the pleasant players.

HERE IS A CHANCE FOR SOME GOOD light heavyweight to get a little experience of the right sort without running a chance of getting his block knocked off in the ring. Jack Twin Sullivan is training for a bout with Sailor Burke in New York on April 4. As usual, Mike Twin has been his sparring partner, but yesterday Mike was put out of commission by an accident, and now the twins are looking for a likely man to work with Jack. Jack will agree not to do to the new man what he did to Mike.

A REFEREE, EVEN A POOR ONE, IS bound to have some friends who will come across for him when someone hands him a "venomous knock," such as I slipped to that Brockton man Ward, for his rotten decision in the Murphy-Donohue fight the other night. If it is a "venomous knock" to say a decision is worse than punk when that is the truth, you'll find me dealing out this kind of poison every time I know of them going to the bad. Ward may be a very nice man, with honest intentions. I don't know him. I do know, however, that a couple of his decisions were so bad that the Brockton club ought to purchase him a pair of glasses or keep him out of the ring. We can't all see things alike, and here is a letter from a Brockton man who thinks I am all to the bad in this matter:

> Straight Dope, Boston American:
>
> I had the pleasure of having a ring-side seat at the bout last Friday night. Say, Straight Dope, did you ever see a bout where one man had about 150 or 200 husky rooters behind him, while the other poor devil had no one but his seconds. Did you ever notice how a bunch like this can sway the rest of the house, or at least part of them? Did you ever see a referee give the under dog a square deal [illegible] under these conditions? Well, that is what Referee Ward gave Young Donohue at the Young Men's Social Club last Friday night. In the face of being mobbed by Murphy's fanatical rooters, he gave the decision just as it should have been given, with no fear or favor. Say, Straight Dope, if one boxer allows the other fellow to do all the aggressive work for ten rounds out of the twelve, how can he expect to get anything but the short end? That is just what Murphy did. He did not wake up until the twelfth round. Now, Straight Dope, with all squareness and fairness to all, your venomous knock of Referee Ward was anything but just right. I have seen that boy referee at least twenty or thirty bouts in the last eight or ten years, and I must say that I have always known him to be a good, clean and honest referee, and a good boy at that. In justice to good, clean sport, old man, I hope earnestly you will print this letter.
>
> Yours truly
> EDWARD MURPHY.
> No. 103 North Quincy street, Brockton.

HENRY C. DUDLEY, LYNN, MASS.—Your chances of getting answered in this column would be a lot better if you used but one side of the paper in writing your letters. Try it.

> Straight Dope, Boston American:
>
> Dear Sir—To settle an argument will you state if the fight between Nelson and Lang went as a knockout. They fought two or three months ago in the South. Awaiting your reply, I remain, Very truly yours,
> Chelsea, Mass. A. L. C.

Nelson knocked Lang out. I believe the bout lasted eight rounds.

CYCLONE THOMPSON FAVORITE, 10 TO 8

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—"Cyclone" Johnny Thompson is favorite in the betting at 10 to 8 to-day for the ten-round fight with Charlie Norval, which takes place at Oakland to-night. The men will meet at catch-weights. The winner has been promised a match with Battling Nelson.

AMATEURS BOX FOR TITLES.

Amateur boxers are training hard for the New England championships which will be held in Mechanics Building next Monday night under the auspices of the B. A. A., when a new crop of champions will be turned out. Members of all clubs affiliated with the N. E. A. A. A. U. may obtain tickets to the boxing tournament by applying to George Brown at No. 28 School street.

BRITTAIN VICTOR OVER MIKE MEMSIC

ATLANTA, Ga., March 23.—Jack Brittain of New York won the decision over Mike Memsic. The last round of the ten round bout produced some of the most brilliant boxing seen by Atlanta sports in a long time, Memsic going at his man in an effort to secure a knockout or draw. Memsic did the rushing in practically every round, but Brittain's covering was so perfect that he was at no time worried by Memsic's attacks.

BELLE GOLD, 2:20½, SOLD.

Learn Present Day Rosary to Gain Content

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX.

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner.

ONE of the oldest and sweetest customs among the religious denominations is the telling of the beads of the rosary.

The Buddhists, the Mohammedans and the Roman Catholics have preserved this custom, whose origin cannot be traced, so remote is it.

There is something poetic and beautiful about it. Without question the habit has been helpful in bringing the minds of religious devotees under control, and developing the power of concentration.

New Thought, which takes its central ideas of the unity of life, and the divinity within, from the oldest religions known to history, can be made still more potent by the introduction of the rosary idea.

No beads are necessary; written phrases will serve the purpose; and let each earnest soul, seeking to find the light and to develop the latent powers within, provide its own rosary.

Are you discouraged and given to melancholy and nervous moods? Do you feel that everything goes against you, and that the future holds nothing but sorrow for you?

Then let this be your rosary. Write down the phrases and put them where you can see them as you sit alone for your moments of concentration. "String your beads" of these sentences:

I am peace absolute.
I am serenity.
I am happiness absolute.
Life holds nothing but good for me.
I am realizing all my heart's desires.

After you have learned the words by heart you will not need the written rosary; it will become a part of your thoughts.

You will say your rosary over as you walk in the street or sit in public conveyances, or drive in your carriage, or lie in your bed; and you will find such strength and power coming to you as you never dreamed of possessing.

If you were worried about your health, or about your financial condition, add new beads to the rosary and say:

I am health, energy, vitality.
I am prosperity and plenty.
Opulence is mine, and the wisdom to use it wisely.
Everything I do succeeds, and I am filled with vitality and strength.

Familiarize yourself with these words and make the rosary a part of your daily mental and spiritual exercise.

The Charlatan

By V. H. FRIEDLANDER

NO wounds are healed by Time, the charlatan;
The skilled physician's power is not his,
Nor with the surgeon's cruel kindness can
He cure our injuries.

Practice has taught him nothing of his art;
And we, who bear perforce his ministry,
Feel until death a throb—an ache—a smart
Where but a scar should be.

We are his victims; shall we not condemn
His sorry aid, though Custom give him praise?
Time heals no wounds!—he can but cover
them
With his fine dust of days.

AN INTERRUPTED PROPOSAL

They were standing beside the babbling brook at the bottom of the garden. The sun was setting in all its glory, turning the landscape into a scene of unspeakable beauty.

Mr. Standon felt the soft and subtle influence of the situation. What better opportunity for pleading his passion? He dropped on one knee.

"Oh, Millie, darling"—when, from a hole in the hedge, came a childish voice: "Oh, how early 'oo says 'oo prayers."

HIGH FINANCE

"When I'm broke, I hit the free lunch."

"I have a better plan. About noontime I drop into some establishment and price automobiles. I've had some very fine meals bought for me this season."

FAT IS FATAL

Fat is fatal to Health, Comfort, Happiness and often fatal to Life.

Let me send you a trial treatment FREE OF CHARGE. You can get rid of your fat safely, surely and quickly.

What my treatment has accomplished in hundreds of cases. It will help you! Try it!

F. A. Richards, Mayor of Holly Hill, Fla., says: Your treatment cured me permanently, it has been two years since I stopped taking it and have not regained a pound.

Rev. Mary Kimball, 119 So. Jackson St., Janesville, Wis., says: Have tested and proven the merits of your reduction remedies, none of my garments fit me; they seem made for another woman.

SPECIAL FREE OFFER I have had such wonderful success with my method of reducing superfluous fat that I have decided to offer for a limited time—free trial treatments. Hundreds of testimonials on file show that my treatment takes off fat at the rate of 5 to 7 pounds a week and what is more, that the fat does not return when the treatment is finished. No person is so fat but what it will have the desired effect, no matter where the excess fat is located—stomach, bust, hips, cheeks, neck—it will quickly vanish without starving, exercising or in any way interfering with your customary habits. My treatment is endorsed by physicians, because of its easy, natural elimination of abnormal flesh and its beneficial effect on the whole system. Perfectly harmless; easy and quick results. Rheumatism, Asthma, Kidney and Heart Troubles leave as fat is reduced. Don't take my word for this; I will prove it at my own expense. Write to-day for free trial treatment and illustrated booklet on the subject; it costs you nothing. Address Dr. J. Gallinger, Dept. 1122E, 41 West 25th St., New York City.

The People With Whom We Live—By Dorothy Dix

THERE are times, I suppose, when all of us are filled with envy of Adam, before Eve was created, because he had the world to himself. There was nobody to interfere with him. Nobody to contradict him. No one with whose ways he had to put up, and life with him must have been one glad, sweet song of untrammeled freedom, such as we may never know.

Of course, this mood doesn't last. We are bound to have companions, if for nothing else but to have some one to complain to, but there is no denying that most of the burdens of existence are laid upon us unnecessarily, unwillingly and unconsciously by the people with whom we live.

It is true that we get good and even with them by the discomforts that we make them suffer by our peculiarities, but there are few more pathetic things in the world than to think that most of us exist as kind of social mustard plasters whose chief mission in life seems to be to irritate and raise a blister on our fellow creatures.

This being the case, it does look as if we might enter into some sort of a mutual protective organization in which we would agree to keep off of other people's grass if they would keep off of ours.

We Don't Know Any Better

Not many of us are consciously human hogs, we are simply swine without knowing it, bent on getting the best of everything for ourselves, and doing as we please without reference to anybody else's pleasure or comfort.

The man at the theatre, for instance, who makes a whole line of women get up twice between every act to let him go out and get a drink, who musses up their pretty frocks by crowding by them, and tramples over their feet, doesn't consider himself a brute. Neither does the musical gentleman who hums the score of the opera in your ear so that you can't hear the singers on the stage.

No more does the intelligent lady who opines nobody but herself has sense enough to understand the plot of the play and who explains the situations in a loud and audible voice to everyone within a radius of six seats, think of herself as an educated pig. Neither does the woman who meets a friend in the aisle after the play is over and the audience rushing for cars, and who blocks the procession while she explains why her cook left, and gives a circumstantial account of the baby's teething.

In reality, all of these people are good, kind, conscientious individuals who desire to do right by their neighbors, and they would be shocked to know how uncomfortable they make life for the balance of us, and how gladly we would poison them like any other pests of the household, if we only dared.

For my part, a man never climbs over me at the theatre when I have on my best frock, that I don't hope that the bartender will put a cute little pinch of prussic acid in his cocktail by mistake.

The Family Curiosity

But, honestly and seriously, do any of us ever sit down dispassionately and think how disagreeable we make things for the people with whom we live, and who have no way of escaping us?

For example, there is family curiosity. Of course, we excuse this to ourselves by saying that it is because we love John or Mary, that we want to know everything they do, and we never take into consideration the suggestion that John or Mary may take an opposite view of the situation.

There are plenty of families in which one cannot turn around without a perfect of fusillade of questions. Where did you go? Why did you go? Who did you see? What did they say? Why did you think? What do you think? In endless iteration. The third degree of the police system isn't a marker to the sweating process that the family inquisitor puts the victim through, and all—dear soul—without the slightest thought that most people would just about as soon have the thumbscrews applied or the corkscrew.

Then there is the interference. If I were making the laws I would head the list of criminal offences, punishable with solitary confinement for life, with interference, and I should make an awful example of the individual who can never see anybody doing anything without butting in with a few suggestions, and a bunch of advice. Not many of us would escape on this count, but it would leave things mighty calm and pleasant for the few survivors.

In all good truth, isn't it strange that we don't realize how obnoxious we make ourselves by not letting people attend to their own business, and raise their own children, and run their own houses in their own way?

Occasionally we grant this great and precious privilege to strangers, but the people with whom we have to live—our fathers and mothers and husbands and sisters and brothers—the people who can't escape us, we harry ceaselessly with our suggestions.

There are households in which it is impossible for a member to even so much as brush her teeth without all the balance of the family asking why don't you do it the other way? Why don't you use a hard brush or a soft brush or a rubber prophylactic brush or a paste wash or a powder or dental soap, or whatever it is you don't do.

Those Irritating Pests

All of us know how irritating it is to have people stand over us with their "Why don't you do it this way?" but we all do it to others, and the real reason that families break up and scatter from Maine to Mexico is because we all want to get among people who won't know us well enough to interfere in our affairs.

As for conversation, would some power the gift to give us to hear ourselves as through a phonograph. What a reform would be there, my countrymen. Surely, those nerve-raspers who begin every sentence with "I say," or "You say," or "Says I," and "Says he," or "You know,' or "Don't you know," would lop off their catch words if they knew how they made the listener squirm.

Perhaps, too, if he could only realize how very, very tired he made us, the man who reads the funny papers wouldn't feel it necessary to repeat over all the old jokes that all the balance of the world read the same time he did. It might also dawn on the fathers and mothers of infant prodigies that nothing on earth but Christian fortitude sustains a person who has to listen to a batch of sterilized milk baby stories.

As a matter of fact, we are absolutely merciless about boring people, yet being talked to death is one of the most exquisite forms of torture in the world. That doesn't concern us, or raise one throb of pity in our breasts. If we want to talk about ourselves we simply converse about ourselves, and it is up to the other party to defend himself if he can.

These are merely elemental suggestions for easing the situation for those with whom we live. Nobody will adopt them, but the people with whom we have to live deserve our heartfelt sympathy just as we have a right to theirs. It is hard on us both, and yet as a multitude of people may pass freely to and fro in a narrow street if every one would only keep to the right, so might we live our lives with freedom and safety and comfort if every one would only respect the right and privilege of the people with whom they live.

Society Impatient for Easter Fetes

By ELIZABETH ELLIOTT.

SO deadly are things in the social realm these last few days of Lent—when even the gayest of the smart set are busy with meditation, fasting, Easter wardrobe—that some of the younger members of the elite are growing restive under the strain of enforced idleness and are longing for things to begin happening once more, to see the social pace begin to quicken and the promising procession of post-Easter events well on its way.

◆ ◆ ◆

Just now there is little to gossip about save the comings and goings of the restless few and the all-alluring prospect of the gay season ahead. The Lindall Winthrops and Mrs. Horace Gray, widow of the Justice of the Supreme Court, are among those about arriving in Europe. The Winthrobs, who spent the Winter here, are returning to their home on the Isle of Wight to which they are devoted and where they entertain extensively, especially their many American friends. This is the first visit the Winthrops have made in America for two years.

◆ ◆ ◆

Another interesting member of the smart set in Boston who is just ariving on the other side is the pretty little heiress, Helen Hooper. Miss Hooper is to be among our next year's debutantes and its quite likely that much of her time abroad will be spent in getting together a suitable wardrobe for the gayeties of her first season. With Miss Hooper is her faithful chaperone, Mrs. Nathan Horton.

◆ ◆ ◆

The William Lowell Putnams, who have been abroad since January, are planning to return the 3d of April and will go directly to their Summer home on the North Shore. The Gordon Dexters are en route for Europe where they will spend the Spring and early Summer.

◆ ◆ ◆

Nathaniel Emmons and his son, Nathaniel F. Emmons, the latter of Concord, who sailed for Buenos Ayres in January, are not expected to return home until the middle of May.

◆ ◆ ◆

Captain and Mrs. William F. Humphrey of Aspinwall avenue, Brookline, have returned from their trip around the world and are being warmly welcomed by their many friends.

◆ ◆ ◆

The mecca of large numbers of the fashionables to-day is the drawing room of the Tuileries on Commonwealth avenue where William Heinrich is giving the third in his series of recitals this Winter.

The list of patronesses included Mrs. R. F. Bolles, Mrs. Samuel J. Mixter, Mrs. Frank E. Peabody, Mrs K. W. Sears, Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, Mrs. B. J. Lang, Mrs. S. Parkman Blake, Mrs. Hugh Bancroft, Mrs. Frederick R. Sears, Jr., Mrs. William Lindsey, Mrs. Eben S. Draper, Mrs. Harry E. Converse, Mrs. J. Arthur Beebe, Mrs. H. Staples Potter, Mrs. Malcolm W. Forbes, Mrs. F. Goodwin Dexter, Mrs. Arthur Cheney, Mrs. William Appleton, Mrs. Boylston A. Beal, Mrs. John Bapst Blake, Mrs. Austin A. Wheelock, Mrs. J. Tucker Burr, Mrs. Charles W, Lasell, Mrs. Henry Emmons, Mrs. Edwin S. Grew, Mrs. Augustus P. Loring, Mrs. Curtis Guild, Jr. and Mrs. William Whitman.

Mrs. Oliver Ames, Sr., Mrs. Alonzo P. Weeks, Mrs. J. F. Bunting, Mrs. W. E. Blanchard, Mrs. Guy Currier, Dr. Eliza B. Cahill, Mrs. Arthur Herbert Whitney, Mrs. Samuel Crowell, Mrs. Francis S. Hasseltine and Mrs. A. C. Page are patronesses for the presentation this evening at Jordan Hall of "An Angel's Tribulations."

◆ ◆ ◆

Mr. and Mrs. J. Warren Merrill, Miss Rossmond Merrill and E. A. Boardman are among the Bostonians who are in New York for part of the week at least.

◆ ◆ ◆

An engagement of international interest is that of Miss Gladys Torrence Benjamin, daughter of Park Benjamin of New York, to Frederick Worth Goddard. Miss Benjamin is the grand-daughter of Park Benjamin, the poet, and the grand niece of John Lothrop Motley, the author of the "Rise of the Dutch Republic," and the ambassador to Holland during its most thrilling days.

◆ ◆ ◆

Mrs. George C. Brooks of Bay State road opens her house to-day for a short lecture by Dr. Cummins on "Science and Philosophy."

◆ ◆ ◆

John M. Thompson of this city is making an envied record with the colony at Miami on account of his successful fishing in Southern waters.

◆ ◆ ◆

G. F. Maxwell of Brookline has joined the Boston colony at Palm Beach, Florida, where he will doubtless spend the remainder of the present season.

◆ ◆ ◆

A. E. Nelson of this city and Louis Robeson of Brookline are spending some time in New York this week.

◆ ◆ ◆

Clarence B. Denny and Frederick Beebe of this city have gone to Havana, Cuba, for the remainder of the season.

Some Intimate Glimpses of Life From an L Train

By MABEL HERBERT URNER.

THE intimate glimpses of life one gets from an elevated train, as it whirls past the upper windows of apartments and tenements!

Homes! Homes! Homes! Each fraction of a second another home passes before you. It is like an ever changing moving picture show. But here the scenes are more vital, of more tense human interest than those shown on any stage.

Homes! Homes! Each glimpse means another home—the place in which the lives of several people are centred, and which means more to them than any other place in the world. Think of the happiness and misery, the hopes and fears walled in behind each window into which you glance so carelessly!

Homes! What pitiful homes so many of them are! Mere cells in huge hive-like structures.

I know of no better cure for discontent than to take an elevated which runs through the poorer tenement district, and which will give you intimate glimpses into thousands of such "homes!" A cross-section view, as it were, into countless lives!

A Glimpse at Life's Tragedy

The filth and squalor, the sordid ugliness of it all! That is all you see at first. The littered fire escapes, with their burden of bedclothes and floating rags. The window sills with their cans and milk bottles. And inside the crowded "living room"—the "home." The rumpled cot in the corner, the pallid children playing on the floor, the stove with its saucepans and the table with its meagre meal.

Thousands of such scenes flash before you. The people you see moving in a swarming mass of humanity. And yet all the tragedies of life, of love and hate, of joy and sorrow, are being enacted there.

Through one window you catch a glimpse of a sick child on the cot—a tired woman bending over it. Another window shows an old man stooping over some sweatshop sewing, lines of patient endurance stamped deep on his face. Through another you see a young woman nursing a tiny baby, looking down at it with eyes full of mother-love. And in the next a consumptive boy is propped up in a chair.

It is all there—all the love and self-sacrifice and suffering and endurance and patience.

And under conditions so much worse than any with which you have to contend that you come back from such a trip with the feeling that your own difficulties and discontent seem not so overwhelming, so all-important as they did.

'CANNOT TRUST CORPORATIONS,' SAYS CARNEGIE

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—The ultimatum in the evidences of good fellowship which have met, attended and followed the six weeks' stay of Andrew Carnegie in California was delivered in a vociferous and enthusiastic manner last night at the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce. He said he had become astonished at the multiplicity of libraries he had given to California.

In his address to the Chamber of Commerce Mr. Carnegie said:

"We cannot but be aware of the fact that no hundred years ever passed in the history of this world has seen such changes as that in which we have been privileged to live. The small manufacturer weaving his webs in his own house has given place to the 5,000 looms of the one factory. Everything is upon a gigantic scale.

"There have come to us combinations, and combinations cannot be prevented. There is scarcely an article now in use that is not in a combination, public or private. We must accept that as the law of our age. As a corrollary to that we are bound to have regulation of commerce, or the consumer has no chance.

"Cannot Trust Corporations."

"We cannot trust corporations. No man is allowed to sit in judgment on his own cause. The judge that would sit on a case in which he was interested would be dishonorable. It follows, then, that you must have a Court of Commerce. We will not allow a corporation to say it can fix its own rates. That Court of Commerce is going to be the supreme court in these matters.

"Labor and capital have been and are giving us serious questions. That must be settled also in the progress of time, and you all know that employers in recent years have been taking more and more interest in the labor employed. You have read of the pensions the various corporations are now establishing, and especially our railroads. You have heard of the schemes for interesting employes. There are 219 establishments in America to-day that do this. That is the panacea I have invoked.

"That would be one thing that would tempt me to return to business, that I might be able to address the 40,000 employes that we have, every one fellow partners, every annual meeting. That is what is coming before many years. I venture to prophesy that this is to be the solution of capital and labor, that the laborer will be both capitalist and workman, and that will be for the good of both capital and labor.

Let Workmen Enjoy Life.

"We cannot be happy as millionaires or as rich men unless we see the honest, industrious, sober, self-respecting workman able to enjoy the comforts of life.

"That is my view in regards to labor. More and more will labor participate in the profits of capital. Now in regard to the wealth. I have stated that the man who dies with millions, one-half of it shall be appropriated by the State, but I do not believe in the income tax. That makes a nation of liars.

"I am decidedly of the opinion that the distribution of wealth under present conditions is not fair. The time is coming when the millionaires will not be honored for his money. The time is coming when he will be held to strict account as to how he makes his money, and he will no longer be a conspicuous person."

BOK DECLARES ALL WOMEN MYSTERIES

NEW YORK, March 23.—Edward Bok, editor of a well-known periodical for women, confesses that he knows nothing about women. He says so himself. "Nobody knows anything about them," he declared. "Nobody ever has and nobody ever will. They're the darkest mystery in the world." "Then how do you know what to write for them?" Mr. Bok was asked. "I don't know," he replied. "I rely on journalistic instinct. But, ah, women know nothing about men, either, you know."

SAVES FIVE FROM DEATH IN FLAMES

When Abraham Weinstein returned to find smoke and fire pouring from the windows of his house at No. 25 Warren street, Malden, he dashed inside and roused two women and two babies upstairs and then returned to save his own child, which was lying asleep, undisturbed by the smoke and flames. All five would have lost their lives but for his daring action. Weinstein's face and hands were scorched and he was nearly strangled.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS; FINANCIAL NEWS

STATE ST. NEWS FOR INVESTORS

Prospects of an amicable understanding between the railroads and their employes in Chicago was the main incentive for a rather buoyant beginning.

$ $ $

Manifestly the workman is as much of an immediate factor in swaying stock quotations as the Supreme Court is a future factor. It was a battle-scarred bear who invented the dictum, "Never sell stocks on a strike."

$ $ $

Some selling was indulged in as a result of the report that the Stock Exchange governors would consider seriously a proposition to make a holiday of Friday and Saturday. In view of the delicate condition of political and labor affairs, the best banking interests felt that such action by the Stock Exchange governors would be injurious to business.

$ $ $

President Shonts and his associates, among whom, of course, is Edwin Hawley, have the confidence not only of important money interests but of an army of Western investors, and their opinion of the advisability of taking on Interboroughs has been acted on numerously.

$ $ $

Traction stocks are among the few that cannot be influenced directly by prosecutions under the Sherman Anti-Trust law. Brooklyn Rapid Transit is earning enough to justify an increase of its dividend to 5 per cent, and Interborough-Metropolitan is earning at the rate of 5 per cent. on its preferred stock, which is all water. The low price secured for the New York city bond issue encourages Interborough-Metropolitan insiders in a belief that the city will not do much subway building, and this will leave the monopoly of transportation in present hands.

$ $ $

The old story of Pennsylvania increasing its dividend to 7 per cent. was revived, and it can be said confidently that the director who promised this increase some months ago has seen no reason to change his mind. The earnings published by "Panhandle" prove the financial strength of the Pennsylvania. Incidentally they put "Panhandle" to a new high record. This movement in the stock probably will disappoint the insiders, for it will make it impossible for them to get all the new stock that is issued at par, as they planned to do when they depressed "Panhandle" for months.

$ $ $

One surprising feature of the railroad situation is the clean sweep of little roads being made by the big systems. There are but few independent small roads of importance left. Even some of the very little ones are now being sought after.

$ $ $

Canadian Pacific is earning such a large surplus that nothing but the fear of a lowering of rates by the Railroad Commission keeps it from increasing its dividend. It will be compelled to expend about $10,000,000 on extraordinary improvements this year to avoid a surplus that will attract the official attention of Canadian politicians. The road has its own car shops and has turned out for years a new locomotive every three working days, a passenger car every other day and about fifteen freight cars daily.

Seven feet southwest from shaft on this level fourteen inches of the width of the vein assays $187 per ton, of which $180 is gold, and the balance silver. WEAKNESS IN COPPER LIST

STATE STREET, March 23.—Copper stocks were the "weak sisters" in to-day's stock market. A break of 18 points in the price of Granby mining shares in the local market started the ball rolling. In Wall Street opening prices were strong, particularly in Union Pacific and Reading. There was some bear selling as well as realizing sales from London. There was also a disposition to even up in anticipation of the triple holiday to follow Good Friday's closing. Action on this matter will be taken by the governors of the stock exchange this afternoon.

The sudden break in Granby was due to reports from Montreal that the dividend would be passed. The company paid but $2 last year, which compares with $4 paid in 1908 and $9 in 1907. This break caused general declines in the local copper share list. Butte Coalition showed early strength due to belief that this company will receive favorable consideration in the Anaconda copper merger.

Stockholders of the Anaconda company hold their meeting in Butte to-day to increase the capital from 1,200,000 to 6,000,000 shares to take over the various mines in the Butte camp. It is expected that the terms and the companies in this merger will be officially announced at this time.

Amalgamated, after a strong period, early broke a point, while Anaconda was firm. North Butte broke 2 points, which indicates poor terms for this company in the take-over. Lake also broke 2¼ points, Indiana 2 and North Lake 1½.

Steel shares showed heaviness in New York after the first hour and ran off over a point. Interboro, which was one of yesterday's strong features, fell back to 58⅝. It sold above 60 yesterday.

LEADING ISSUES JUMP A POINT

NEW YORK, March 23.—Those professional traders in Wall Street who attacked the stock market in the last few minutes of trading yesterday were to-day purchasing the shares to cover their outstanding commitments. As a result, the leading issues were an average of one point above the closing figures of yesterday. Trading was dull, but Reading was the most active issue, with a gain of 1⅝ points. Harriman shares gained a point each, while Steel rose three-quarters of a point to 86. Copper shares were nearly a point higher.

Trading in the traction stocks was on a moderate scale, with Brooklyn Rapid Transit showing strength and Interborough-Metropolitan shares were steady at the closing figures of last night. Virginia Carolina Chemical was the most active of the specialties and rose nearly a point.

Panhandle and Norfolk & Western also showed strength. Traders hesitated to make fresh commitments to-day because the governors of the exchange were considering a proposition to close that institution on Friday and Saturday.

In London American shares were fractionally higher.

On the curb copper stocks were a trifle higher. Trading in Standard Oil and American Tobacco was extremely light, while dealings in Intercontinental Rubber were on a moderate scale.

ROOSEVELT EXPECTS TO SEE PINCHOT

LUXOR, Egypt, March 23.—Theodore Roosevelt was asked to-day to confirm or deny the report that he had summoned by cable Gifford Pinchot, whom President Taft dismissed from the office of chief forester, to meet him in Naples. The former President dismissed the subject by saying:

"Why, if Pinchot is in Naples while I am there I will probably see him."

This was a day of strenuous rest for Mr. Roosevelt, who is preparing for the strain of the entertainment planned for him at Cairo. Besides giving much time to correspondence, he addressed the girls' college and the American mission to-day.

The arrangements for the last leg of the trip from the jungle to the Mediterranean called for the departure of the Roosevelt party at 7 p. m. in a special car attached to the regular express.

While here Mr. Roosevelt's knowledge of ancient Egyptian history and his intimacy with the tangled stories of the many dynasties amazed archeological experts. Arthur E. P. Weigall, inspector-general of upper Egypt for the department of antiquities and one of the world's foremost Egyptologists, to-day declared:

"Mr. Roosevelt astonished me by his knowledge of affairs of old Egypt. He displays not only intense interest in this subject, and deep knowledge, but a great aptitude and had he turned his attention to this study, he would surely have made a great name for himself among scholars."

Every precaution to guard the former President in spite of his declaration of confidence will be taken at Cairo.

Good Land in Minnesota and North Dakota

These states have millions of acres of productive soil still awaiting the men to develop them. The country needs the products and pays good prices for them.

"No land on the American continent excels that in certain sections of North Dakota," says Professor Thomas Shaw, agricultural and land expert. The Red River and James River Valleys are exceedingly fertile. The uplands are admirably adapted to "dry farming."

The Cannon Ball Country in Western North Dakota is being opened up by new lines of the Northern Pacific—very desirable, low-priced land here.

Minnesota is a state of great possibilities for the homeseeker. Farming, dairying, and stock-raising are making Minnesota people wealthy. Both states enjoy a healthful climate—clear dry air and plenty of sunshine. Nearby markets at St. Paul, Minneapolis, Duluth, Superior, and Chicago—quickly reached via the Northern Pacific—bring highest prices for products.

Write tonight and find out more about these great states. Don't delay. Land values steadily increase as homeseekers learn of the attractions offered. A two-cent stamp is all the information costs. Write now.

The Northern Pacific extends into or through Minnesota, Wisconsin, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon. New rich territory being opened up by extensions now building. The Homeseeker's Chance!

Legal and Public Notices.

Surfacing the Main Portion of the Charles River Dam.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts. Charles River Basin Commission.

Sealed proposals will be received at the office of the Charles River Basin Commission, 367 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., until 2:30 o'clock P. M., on Monday, April 4, 1910, for surfacing and grading the main portion of the Charles River Dam. The work will require about 5,300 cubic yards of earth excavation, a small amount of borrowed earth, about 5,500 linear feet of trench in which to lay pipes which will be furnished by the Commission, 13 service boxes, 2 manholes, 46 catch-basins, 2,000 cubic yards of gravel, 200 square yards of vitrified brick gutters and 14,000 cubic yards of loam. The gravel and loam will be measured in place. The work to be done includes the laying of pipes for drains, for water and for electric wires, the construction of service boxes and catch-basins, laying brick gutters, building gravel walks, removing a portion of the shut-off dam and placing loam on the Dam and seeding it for grass. Pamphlets containing further information for bidders, forms of proposals, contract and specifications will be ready about March 26, 1910, and will be mailed to contractors who apply to the Chief Engineer, or may be obtained at his office, 367 Boylston Street, Boston, where also plans may be seen. The printed form must be used in making proposals. The Commission reserves the right to reject any or all proposals and to accept the proposal deemed best for the Commonwealth. HENRY D. YERXA, Chairman; JOSHUA B. HOLDEN, EDGAR R. CHAMPLIN, Charles River Basin Commission; HIRAM A. MILLER, Chief Engineer; WILLIAM S. YOUNGMAN, Secretary.

Big Piano Bargains

EVERY MAKE Are you thinking of buying a piano of some special make—a piano that has a good reputation—one that everyone knows is a first-class make? If you are, you are just the person to whom we wish to say—"Don't pay too much for it"—you will be asked a good round price for it unless you get it of us. We are in no trade or financial combination to keep the prices of pianos up—the name of a piano means much—it guarantees the instrument—but when the piano gets to our sacrifice floor the name is not considered. When we cut the price we cut all alike—and we cut deep. You buy while we cut.

PIANO WAREROOMS

395 BOYLSTON STREET

We do not pretend to be a "storage warehouse" nor "second floor dealers"; nor are we running "guessing contests" or issuing worthless "certificates." Neither do we buy cheap new pianos in New York city for $75 and sell them as "bargains" at from $100 to $300. But we do give the public reliable pianos at lowest possible prices on easy terms of $10 down and $5 per month. An inspection of our stock and prices will show you why it is better for you and for us to do straightfoward piano business, rather than resort to unscrupulous advertising methods. Established in 1863—we have for nearly 50 years given the public the best piano values anywhere obtainable. Call at our warerooms and let us prove this to you.

AND A FLORIDA FRUIT OR TRUCK FARM IS YOURS.

Own a profitable fruit or truck farm in Florida's best farm district and pay for it with little monthly savings. By intensive farming, with no previous experience, you can make it yield as much as $5,000 a year. This prolific land will grow from three to five crops each year, with a profit of from $100 to $800 an acre. Land will raise sweet potatoes, Irish potatoes, Bermudas, celery, lettuce, cabbage, tobacco, tomatoes, peanuts, pecans, strawberries, oranges, figs, grapes, rice, oats, cotton, corn, sugar cane—besides being ideal for stock, dairying, bees and poultry. Near big markets; three railroads; eight minutes from Lake City; 51 miles from Jacksonville—in the established profit belt. Climate is fine; water pure—health, fresh air and sunshine abound; beautiful lakes; fishing and hunting galore. This is one of the few instances in which good land can still be procured at a low price. Lake City Board of Trade, Mayor, bankers, congressmen and farmers will vouch for our statements regarding this beautiful land. The price of this land is $25 per acre, but this allotment will be sold at $15.00 per acre, cash or little monthly payments. It can't last long at that price. Fifty Times John D. Rockefeller Tried---To Put the Ball in the Hole

Did Rockefeller Succeed in Life Because He Tries Things Fifty Times? Or, Does He Try Things Fifty Times Because It Is His Nature to Succeed?

Copyright, 1910, by American-Journal-Examiner

A. L. Erlanger is supposed to have in the theatrical world the place that is held by John D. Rockefeller in the realm of kerosene oil.

Erlanger, talking about Rockefeller—whom he considers one of the greatest living men—said: "Mr. Rockefeller, playing golf, missed quite an easy shot on the green. His ball didn't go into the hole. He stopped the game and kept it waiting while he made that same shot over fifty times, to find out just why he had missed it and how he could avoid missing it next time. That gives you a good idea of the way he gets things done."

It is interesting to see Mr. John D. Rockefeller, owner of a large slice of the United States, and about to give back to the people something like a thousand millions of dollars—trying fifty times in succession to put a little white golf ball in a little round hole with a golf club!

Men like Rockefeller and Carnegie, when they get old, spend a good deal of their time telling how they won success. They don't really tell how they won it, they tell how they THINK they won it.

Mr. Rockefeller, for instance, has told all human beings how he saved up his first dollar, how he could remember to this day just how it looked, and how it felt in his boyish pocket, where it was waiting for 999,999,999 other little dollars to come and join it.

Mr. Rockefeller probably believes in his heart that he managed to get all of the oil and most of the money in his neighborhood because he saved up his first dollar. But that had nothing to do with it.

There are plenty of men driving Mr. Rockefeller's oil wagons who also saved up THEIR FIRST DOLLAR. And yet that first dollar never attracted a thousand million little brothers!

Next time Mr. Rockefeller tells the story of his success he ought to tell about that hitting the golf ball fifty times, making the shot over fifty times to find out why he missed it and how he could avoid missing it.

There's more explanation of Rockefeller's success in that scene on the golf links than there is in all the stories ever told about saving the first dollar.

The great majority of all human beings have THEIR CHANCE AT SUCCESS. They make a shot and miss it, then they spend the rest of their lives telling how unlucky they were. They don't camp right down on the spot and stop the game WHILE THEY TRY THE SHOT OVER FIFTY TIMES!

This failure to put the little white ball in the little round hole wasn't Mr. Rockefeller's first failure, you can be sure. It wasn't the first thing that he tried over and over fifty times, refusing to give up.

He has had to put a great many men in little round holes and in little square holes, and he has put them in by trying.

He has put the people of the United States each one snugly into a little round hole labeled "Kerosene." And he has about eighty million such little holes nicely filled up, thanks to repeated trying.

Preach your own sermon to your own self on this Rockefeller golf link story.

But don't imagine that you can make yourself any more successful by buying a golf ball and a club and digging a little round hole and practising fifty times or fifty thousand times.

It wasn't what Rockefeller DID in the golf game that made any difference. It was what that fifty times trying TOLD ABOUT HIS CHARACTER.

Just apply the Rockefeller story to the particular thing that you are trying to do now. If there's anything that you are doing in a slouchy, slipshod, ineffective way, missing sometimes and hitting sometimes, put your brain on that AND STOP MISSING. This may not make you a Rockefeller, but it will make you better than you are.

Of course, in this Rockefeller story, and every other story about success, you must remember TEMPERAMENT.

Temperament is the combination of all the qualities inside of you, inherited from all of your grandfathers and grandmothers on both sides, MODIFIED BY YOUR EDUCATION AND SURROUNDINGS.

There is a great question as to how much education and surroundings CAN modify temperament. And there is a great question, on which wise men disagree, as to the possibility of a man CONTROLLING HIS OWN TEMPERAMENT.

Napoleon said that no man could do this. He certainly could not control HIS temperament. If he had been able to do that and stop grasping for too much, he might have died emperor; he might have cursed France and the rest of the world with a long line of worthless rulers. Luckily, he did his work and wound up his career, thanks to his temperament that he couldn't control.

When you see John D. Rockefeller, old and bald, standing out on the grass, with lips tight set, hitting a comical little white ball fifty times in succession, you must not say to yourself, "He is a success because he does things fifty times over." You must say, "He naturally does things fifty times over BECAUSE THAT'S THE KIND OF MAN HE IS."

Rockefeller has it in him to do the thing that makes success, and so he does that.

Whether we can absolutely compel ourselves to do the things that we know we ought to do is a question. Each of us has to try that question for himself. Those that succeed think that they have controlled themselves and made their temperaments better. Those that fail talk about hard luck and a bad start, or excuse themselves in some other way. Anyhow, it can't hurt us, and it probably helps us, TO TRY.

The whole of life is rather a tiresome fight anyhow, and we might as well fight ourselves and our own weakness—for there we have an enemy always at hand, one that we can get at.

Shall We Make a Move for True Temperance?—No. 4

The Argument for the Beer Saloon Versus Prohibition

By REV. ROLAND D. SAWYER,
Pastor First Congregational Church, Ware, Mass.

TOTAL prohibition is an attempt to legislate so far ahead of public sentiment as to be practically always a mere farce, which need deceive no one save those who are bound to see a success in it anyway.

But, assuming for the sake of the argument that we could secure its enforcement, I believe the arguments for it are weak, and those for the beer saloon better.

First—The economic situation. Prohibition would deprive of its investment over three billion dollars of capital. It would deprive a million of men of the chance to earn their living at their chosen trades. It would deprive the farmers of a market for grain that it takes a territory equal to two States to raise. It would take away a revenue of one hundred millions from the United States Government.

Prohibition would be, on economic grounds, so serious a matter as to be impossible.

This does not apply to beer. It is beer that is the bulky stuff that gives work to builders, teamsters, horseshoers, machinists, plumbers, coopers, glassblowers, wagon makers, transportation companies, etc., etc.

It is beer that uses most of the farmer's grain. The stop of the sale of hard liquors would cause hardly an economic ripple, but the stop of the sale of beers would be an economic catastrophe under our present system.

Second—Prohibition does not properly value the saloon as a social institution for the working classes. The saloon is the workingman's club. Any man who has gone into a town in a workingman's garb, with a week's beard on his face, with little money and no friends, knows the value of the saloon as the worker's clubroom.

Where is such a man in a strange city to go? The restaurants don't want him, the stores are not open to him. There are no churches, Y. M. C. A.'s to minister to him. He may find a labor union or Socialist hall where he can find kindred spirits and friends.

But to most speedily find friends of his own class, to get information, fellowship, help, attend to nature's needs, he usually steers for the saloon.

Once, when moving from one parish to another, I drove a team over the road. I looked a little rough, no doubt. I had a bundle to leave somewhere for a while as I was passing through Boston. I tried several places where, if I had been wearing my clerical garb, I have no doubt, I could have left it in either of them. But, in my workingman's clothes, none seemed able to accommodate.

In despair I turned into a saloon, and the first barkeeper I timidly approached replied, "Sure, put it over there behind that beer barrel as long as you want to."

Society has the right to say that this workingman's club shall be run in a way least troublesome to the community. It should reduce the evils that gather about it as much as possible. But it has no right to say that this place, where the unwashed and hard-worked find their only gathering place, shall not be.

Third—Prohibition does not properly consider the natural human longing for something soothing and stimulating.

Men, in the long, hard struggles of the upward march of the race, have always resorted to something to soothe their tired muscles and exhilarate their jaded spirits.

The Mohammedan will not use alcohol, but has drugs worse; the Chinaman has his opium. Of all these devices men have sought out beer is the least harmful to the development of the race.

The race, then, has not yet reached the point where it will give up these things entire. But shall we not seek to guide them to take that which is least harmful to them? Or shall we, for the sake of an idea, drive them back to something worse than beer?

"Worthless Dross!"

"I Did Not Begin to Give Until I Had That Worthless Dross Called Money"—Andrew Carnegie.

By CLEMENT L. POLLOCK

I NEVER was fired with ambition
  To soar like a Roosevelt or Taft,
Nor longed for the blissful condition
  That follows when nectar is quaffed.
My meekness could not be augmented;
  A stone, I long not for moss,
But would be happily, amply contented,
  With what Carnegie calls worthless dross!

By reaching for gifts high above them
  The angels fell far through the air;
Why look at life's jewels and love them
  When they simply drag down to despair!
Why climb high and court such a tumble
  When it brings but eternal loss!
I'll try to be lowly and humble
  With a modicum of this worthless dross.

All whizz-wagon hopes I will banish
  And other bright visions of fun;
The aeroplane likewise may vanish
  As fresh dew that's kissed by the sun;
I'll brush clear my envious pages
  And meekly go up to my boss
And see if he'll add to my wages
  A soupcon of this worthless dross!

A Warning to Wives

By WEX JONES

NOTE—The following secret minutes of a meeting of Husbands' Union, Local No. 1, were obtained with great difficulty and at considerable risk, and are now made public in the interest of wives whose happiness may be menaced by this unprincipled organization:

AT a special meeting of the Husbands' Union, Local No. 1, held last night in Wedlock Hall, the case of Husband No. 7 came up for discussion. Number 7 had admitted in a moment of confidence that he had given his entire month's salary to his wife, and that she gave him ten cents every morning for carfare. On one occasion he had failed to get a transfer to the subway and in, consequence was forced to walk all the way from that point to City Point, being severely reprimanded by his boss for being late.

These facts were reported to the committee by the members in whom Husband No. 7 had confided, and a formal motion was made for the expulsion of No. 7, on the ground that he had violated the cardinal rule of the union—namely, that no member should ever turn over all his salary to his wife.

In his defence No. 7 admitted that the story was quite true, but explained that he was accustomed to hold out a $10 bill each month. On this occasion he was reading the sporting page on the way home and forgot to extract the bill from his roll. He promised that should he have his salary raised he would not inform his wife, but would keep the extra money for himself. On this condition No. 7 was permitted to remain in good standing.

Husband No. 13 was charged by Husband No. 17 with violating Rule XI, which commands all members of the union to help one another out in any excuses that may be necessary for late hours. Number 17 asserted that he had been out playing poker and in getting home had explained that he had been at the home of Number 13. To his great embarrassment Number 13 replied over the telephone that he knew nothing about it. (Sensation.)

Number 13, when called upon to show cause why he should not be expelled, said that he himself had just come home as the telephone bell rang and had explained that business had kept him at the office. As his wife, too, was standing by the telephone, it was obviously impossible for him to help out Number 17, however much he might desire to do so.

The justice of this contention was instantly recognized, and the committee, while sympathizing with Number 17, was unable to censure his fellow member.

These cases having been disposed of, the meeting settled down to a social entertainment, but, owing to the imminence of bills for Easter millinery, the members were not in such high spirits as usual.

The membership of the Union is increasing at a phenomenal rate, and it has been found necessary to bar from admission all husbands whose ties or cigars were obviously purchased for them by their wives. Applications should be addressed to the Corresponding Secretary, Husbands' Union, Local No. 1.
